KOHLI-SURYA SHINE TO CLINCH SERIES

Virat Kohli's scintillating strokeplay found its match in maverick Suryakumar Yadav's batting pyrotechnics as the duo fashioned India's series-clinching six-wicket win over Australia in the final T20 International in Hyderabad on Sunday. Chasing 187, India was tottering with openers KL Rahul (1) and Rohit Sharma (17) dismissed inside the first four overs. While Suryakumar orchestrated the carnage, Kohli played the second fiddle | P15

CHANDIGARH AIRPORT TO BE NAMED AFTER BHAGAT SINGH

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday announced the decision in his monthly Mann Ki Baat radio broadcast

A TRIBUTE TO THE FREEDOM FIGHTER: MODI

The prime minister called it a "tribute to the great freedom fighter". Naming the airport after Bhagat Singh has been a long-pending demand of the Punjabis. "Finally our efforts paid off. On behalf of entire Punjab, we welcome the decision of naming the Chandigarh airport after Shaheed Bhagat Singh ji," Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann tweeted

END TO YEARS-LONG DISPUTE OVER NAME

- Modi's announcement follows years of controversy over naming the international airport, which serves both Punjab and Haryana
- While Punjab mooted Bhagat Singh's name, Haryana had wanted to honour late RSS ideologue Mangal Sein. It was only last month that they agreed to name the airport after Bhagat Singh

Gehlot loyalists revolt against high command

Refuse to pass resolution paving way for Sachin Pilot as successor

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE Rajasthan Congress on Sunday night witnessed a full-blown rebellion against the high command, with the faction loyal to Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot refusing to accept the decision to anoint Sachin Pilot as the successor.

The unwilling Gehlot has been directed to step down as he is the Gandhi family's choice for the party's national presidentship, nominations for which began on Friday.

Instead of attending an Congress Legislature Party (CLP) meeting called at 7.30 pm at Gehlot's residence to decide on the change of guard, they trooped to the house of Assembly Speaker C P Joshi to 'tender their resignation'. The high command had deputed AICC observers Ajay Maken and Mallikarjun Kharge to oversee the meeting. "102 MLAs are with us. Will they listen to us or the other 10-15 MLAs?" Gehlot loyalist and minister Pratap Singh Khachariyawas asked.

While Gehlot lobbied for C P Joshi as his successor, Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka insisted on picking Pilot instead.

To facilitate the decision, the CLP meeting was expected to issue a one-line resolution authorising the party president to name its new leader.

But Khachariyawas said, "Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi should understand the sentiments of the MLAs. The proposed resolution is not accepted to them. When the government was in crisis, everyone supported it. But now the legislators are not being heard. That's why they are angry."

Independent MLA Sanyam Lodha said the new CM should be one from 102 MLAs who stayed in hotels for 38 days to save the Congress government two years ago. Alluding to Pilot, he said, those who tried to topple the government cannot be accepted as CM. The Congress has 108 in the 200-member House. It also has the support of 13 Independents.

Late in the night, Khachariyawas and a few others met Kharge and Maken. Later, Maken said he and Kharge will meet every MLA individually to ascertain their views. But other angry pro-Gehlot MLAs refused to meet the AICC observers. They said the decision on Rajasthan should be taken only after the verdict of the national presidential polls is out. Till then the CLP meeting should not be held, they asserted.

Wait for Cong polls to take unity talks forward: Sonia to Nitish, Lalu

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

HOURS after he gave a call to build a strong Opposition front that included the Congress, to take on the BJP, Bihar Chief Minister and JD(U) head Nitish Kumar held talks with Congress interim chief Sonia Gandhi here on Sunday. RJD patriarch Lalu Yadav accompanied him.

"We have to bring all Opposition parties together to defeat the BJP. The Congress is in the process of electing its new president and Sonia Gandhi told us that we will meet after the election," Nitish later said.

He added that there was broad agreement on Opposition unity but a concrete action plan can be formulated only after the Congress presidential polls. "We will hold further talks after the Congress organisational polls," he said.

Lalu said, "without the Congress, there would be no alliance. All of us have to come together to remove BJP from the country."

This was Nitish's first meeting with Sonia after he walked out of the BJP alliance in Bihar. Lalu, too, was meeting Sonia after a gap of five years.

Speaking to this newspaper, JD(U) leader K C Tyagi said Nitish will strive to bring all disparate parties together, including Naveen Patnaik's BJD. "Nitish doesn't believe in political untouchability. He is planning to travel to Odisha and West Bengal to meet Mamata and Naveen," said Tyagi.

No big deal: Sushil Modi

"These regional parties have only a few seats in Lok Sabha and they won't dent BJP's prospects in 2024. We will secure more seats than last time," said senior BJP leader Sushil Modi

Forge main front, says Bihar chief minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PROMINENT Opposition leaders on Sunday gave a fresh unity call ahead of the 2024 general election at a massive rally organised by the INLD in Haryana's Fatehabad to commemorate the birth anniversary of the party's founder Devi Lal.

Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar urged the Opposition to build a 'main front' of all parties, including the Congress, to defeat the ruling BJP while ruling out a third front.

He also stayed in denial on entering the prime ministerial race. "I am not a PM candidate. There is also no question of a third front. There should be one front, including the Congress and the Left," he said, adding that they had even requested the Congress to participate in the rally.

Not just the Congress, major parties like Telangana Rashtra Samithi and Trinamool Congress gave the rally a miss. However, NCP patriarch Sharad Pawar, RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav, CPI(M)'s Sitaram Yechury and SAD boss Sukhbir Singh Badal participated. Pawar, Yechury and Badal echoed Nitish saying the need of the hour is for everyone to come together to dislodge the BJP.

Trinamool, TRS, DMK no-show

"Since West Bengal and Tamil Nadu CMs Mamata Banerjee and M K Stalin skipped it, Telangana CM K Chandrashekar Rao felt it wasn't important enough to participate," a party source said

Rohatgi declines Centre's offer to make him AG

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

SENIOR advocate Mukul Rohatgi, who was expected to make a comeback as the Attorney General of India on October 1, on Sunday declined the Centre's offer of the post.

It was unclear why he turned it down. With incumbent Attorney General K K Venugopal's term ending on September 30, the Centre, earlier this month offered the post to Rohatgi.

Had he accepted the offer, it would have been his second stint as the attorney general. Soon after the Narendra Modi-led Central government came to power in 2014, he was appointed as India's 14th attorney general.

After Rohatgi's three-year term ended in 2017, Venugopal succeeded him. Venugopal's first term ended in 2020, after which he was twice given extensions. He had refused to accept further extension, citing "personal reasons".

While turning down the offer, Rohatgi, said that he was grateful that the Centre offered to appoint him as the country's top law officer.

Rohatgi, a veteran lawyer, has appeared in several high profile cases in the apex court as well as high courts across the country. Notably, he appeared for the Special Investigation Team (SIT) in the Supreme Court, which had heard a plea by Zakia Jafri pertaining to the 2002 Gujarat riots.

Rohatgi, who is known for his benevolent submissions was appointed as Additional Solicitor General in 1999 and continued in that role till the first UPA government came to power in 2004.

Tech glitch disrupts 108 services

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE '108' ambulance helpline service was disrupted across the state for a few hours on Sunday, inconveniencing people in need of emergency care. Normally, the helpline automatically receives the call and allocates an ambulance within two minutes, but on Sunday, it stretched to 6-7 minutes. The helpline, instead of receiving 7-8 thousand calls, could only attend 2-3 thousand calls and a technical error in the IT hardware is said to be the reason behind the glitch.

Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said action was taken to resolve the issue and the people need not worry. Instructions were issued to provide emergency services to people by creating manual IDs, he added.

More staff will be deployed to the emergency wing of the 112 helpline to reduce pressure on 108 services. The 104 helpline too was being used to attend to calls. Missed calls are also being attended to, while more staffers were deployed to the 108 helpline, he said. P5

Converted forcibly, says Mandya man, files plaint

AMIT S UPADHYE @Hubballi

A 26-year-old Dalit man from Mandya district has filed a complaint with the Hubballi police, alleging that he was forcibly converted by a group of people. The incident came to light after he was attacked, probably by members of the same group, the police said.

The group threatened to kill the victim, Shreedar Gangadhar from Maddur in Mandya district, if he approached the police, officials said.

The case assumes significance as the Assembly passed the Karnataka Protection of Right to Freedom of Religion Bill on Wednesday.

The victim came in contact with the main accused, Attavar Rehman (35) from Bengaluru, last year. Shreedar, who is working at a private firm, was in a financial crisis in May and contacted Rehman for help. Rehman promised to give him money and introduced him to another accused, Ajisab (50) from Dharwad district.

Shreedar was allegedly put in a small house at a burial ground at Banashankari in Bengaluru, where he was circumcised against his wish. He suffered injuries during the process, but was not allowed to go to a hospital. The other accused forced him to eat beef, made him pose with a firearm, and took photos. The accused allegedly told Shreedar that he has to accept Islam, or the photo would be shared with the police with a note that he was indulging in anti-national activities, the complaint stated. He was allegedly taken on a tour of mosques in Bengaluru, Dakshina Kannada and AP. P6

Villagers suspect woman to be child lifter, thrash her

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TENSION gripped Neralaghatta village in Doddaballapura on Saturday, after villagers thrashed a 35-year-old woman, suspecting her to be a child lifter. However, no police case was registered. Instead, district police raised awareness, and asked people not to believe any rumours of child lifters.

The victim Manjula, is a resident of Devanahalli, who lives with her family. Police said Manjula, who sells artificial jewellery, had come to Neralaghatta and seen two children attending nature's call. She offered them chocolates, but they refused. A passerby started questioning her and called the villagers, who thrashed her before calling the police. She was taken to a nearby hospital for first aid treatment.

Investigation revealed she often visited villages to sell artificial jewellery, especially for children. When she noticed the kids, she gave them chocolates as a goodwill gesture. She was carrying her Aadhaar card, and panchayat members also recognised her.

Meanwhile, state police have appealed to the public not to pay heed to rumours doing the rounds on social media. "We are keeping an eye on social media and action will be taken if such rumours are circulated," a senior police officer said.

Karnataka leads in registration of health facilities under Ayushman Digital Mission

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

A year after the Ayushman Bharath Digital Mission (ABDM) of the National Health Authority (NHA) was launched, Karnataka, which lagged in the service three months ago, now stands first in the country in the number of health facilities logged in its Health Facility Registry (HFR), second in Health Professionals Registry (HPR) and in health records being digitally linked to Ayushman Bharath Health Account (ABHA) ID.

Bengaluru being a digital hub, the state health department is ready to house NHA's tech centre/regional unit at Arogya Soudha in the city.

Asked about the importance in performance, ABDM mission director in the state D Randeep said, "We involved PHANA (Private Hospitals and Nursing Homes Association) and IMA to elicit the cooperation of private hospitals. Teams of district health officers and district family welfare officers convinced all government PHIs, doctors and nurses to get registered. All 'health and family welfare hospitals', and 'maternity care hospitals' were asked to link patient ABHA IDs with hospital health records."

He said, "We have switched over to the new GOI-GOK co-branded Ayushman Bharat Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya-Arogya Karnataka health card since September 5 and we have issued 40 lakh cards, which helped in creating ABHA IDs too. We are creating awareness to get their ABHA IDs linked to health records. Officers are being given a daily target of to create 3.15 lakh ABHA IDs."

Clear encroachments to stop flooding: Expert

'Bengaluru has lost 88% vegetation cover, 75% of water bodies'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

RESEARCHERS of the Indian Institute of Sciences (IISc), Bengaluru, and coordinator of the Energy and Wetland Research Group, Dr TV Ramachandra said that flooding in Bengaluru can be prevented only if encroachments from areas are removed and natural water reserves are restored.

The green cover situation in Bengaluru is also dire, with only one tree for every seven people in the city, and this ratio must be reversed to restore old Bengaluru's vegetation," he said.

Indian Council for Medical Research scientist Dr Srikanth Srirama, said that the issues of communicable diseases will increase due to flooding and improper water drainage. "Various diseases like dengue, malaria and Chikungunya, as well as skin conditions, respiratory infections will see amplification due to water retention, and can have a psychological impact. Bengaluru saw a rise in dengue cases, and children bore the brunt of psychological ramifications," he said.

He also emphasized the importance of a better system to prevent the spread of diseases, including prioritising quick repair of houses and civic amenities as well as counselling for those affected.

Speaking at the Breakthrough Science Society's webinar 'Karnataka: Cities Under Water, Why?', he said that Bengaluru has lost 88 per cent of its vegetation to urbanisation, as well as 75 per cent of its water bodies. "The government must ensure that encroached areas are taken back, even if it affects the public. This will help avoid major problems in the future.

Postman rings with important certificates

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

CITIZENS can now received important documents at their doorsteps, which will come as a relief to innumerable across the state.

The State Revenue Department has entered into a tie-up with the Karnataka Postal Department to deliver important certificates at one's doorsteps, which is set to completely eliminate the role of middlemen, said a senior postal official.

Speaking to TNIE, V Tara, Assistant Postmaster General, Business Development, Karnataka Postal Circle said, "This follows an MoU inked between the Atalji Janansehi Kendra (ASK) under the Revenue department and the Karnataka Postal Circle last week. Public need not visit the 1,000-odd Nada Kacheris at the Hobli level across the state or the 1,050 Spandana centres in the cities to collect their certificates for which they had applied initially."

The certificates would be delivered by Speed Post. "On an average, the state postal department handles 2,000 such certificates on a daily basis. The state would pay the delivery fee, and the postal department is expected to earn at least Rs 5 lakh per month," she said.

"Usually at the Hobli level, applicants come in person to apply for certificates, and then they have to come often to check on the availability. Some of them travel long distances, and this decision will come as a big relief. There is a system to apply for it online too, but a sizeable number prefer to do it physically," she said.

Costly power: Hotel owners to meet min

ENS @Bengaluru

FEARING that power tariff hike of 43p per unit will hit their businesses, the Hotel Owners' Association has decided to meet Power Minister V Sunil Kumar. The Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission (KERC) has permitted Bescom to increase tariff for all consumers for the third time, including household users and commercial entities.

The owners said that they are still recovering from losses suffered during the pandemic, and the tariff hike will deal another blow to their businesses.

Veerendra N Kamat, secretary of Bruhat Bengaluru Hotels Association, said since food processing units use electricity, it will be impossible to afford a power tariff hike twice a year. So, we have decided to meet the minister to demand its withdrawal, he said. Prices of essential commodities have soared, but we do not want to transfer the burden on the consumers, he said, adding that if the decision is not revoked, they will be forced to increase prices. The hike came primarily due to changes in fuel adjustment charges.

No funds, irregular pay, science forum in lurch

NAMRATA SINDWANI @Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Rajya Vijnana Parishat (KRVP) employees have complained that they are facing fund crunch which is hampering smooth functioning of the organisation.

The organisation, claimed to be running under the Department of Science and Technology, is facing difficulties to maintain its infrastructure and administration with nine staffers working without a promotion or full salary for months now. They pointed out that they are understaffed and overburdened.

AB Basavaraju, director (technical), Department of Science and Technology, denied being responsible for funding, bearing administrative cost KRVP as it was a separate NGO, and did not come under their jurisdiction. He refused to comment on why the grants dried up over the years.

The parishat began in 1980, and has been a recipient of many science and technology-based awards.

KRVP secretary Krishnakumar Gowda told TNIE that they were receiving grants of ₹1-2 crore annually from the Department of Science and Technology since its inception for activities and administrative works, but over the past five years, the grants have trickled to ₹20 lakh. It can be used only for KRVP activities and does not cover administrative costs. The Parisat has not received a government grant of Rs 10 lakh this year. There has been no recruitment since 2017.

Don't hike fees: AIDSO to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE All India Democratic Students' Organisation (AIDSO) has appealed to the government that fees for courses for applying for seats under government quota in private colleges should not be increased by 10 per cent, which was agreed by the Department of Medical Education.

The hike will be applicable for medical and dental courses for undergraduate courses.

They alleged that the government's decision will favour private colleges, and help in privatising education which will thwart access of education for students, especially from rural areas.

"Enrollment in government degree colleges has fallen significantly this year is a reflection the problem, and highlights the reality. Fee hike will further discourage medical aspirants from pursuing higher education," said state secretary Ajay Kamath.

An official announcement regarding the increase of fees is yet to be made either by the department or Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

26TH September : We're still in a powerful Moon phase. Some people I know regard this as their favourite moment in the month, ideal for making a fresh start in their jobs and relationships. Actually, the most auspicious moment for setting off on a new enterprise arrives tomorrow, perhaps - but definitely by Thursday.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
A set of controversial lunar alignments is bound to make you aware of differences of approach at work. You may, in point of fact, become embroiled in an argument with colleagues yourself, unless you take careful evasive action. Give a partner the benefit of the doubt, even if it goes against the grain.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)
Check up on the financial situation, and don't hang around if family members need putting right about who pays for what. You probably won't reach a lasting agreement, but that shouldn't stop you arguing your corner. You could do well in interviews and discussions at work, by the way.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Venus' curious motion is taking you back to the past, evoking memories of former loves. In many respects that's no bad thing, although there are certain indications that you'll begin the day on the wrong foot. You must realise that nothing is final and that everything can be changed.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
It's a day for differences of opinion, and that goes for all twelve signs. Yet in your case it does seem very likely that you won't really understand what's being said, so you may be well advised to bide your time. Patience is an admirable virtue.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The Sun and Moon are gradually moving towards another enthusiastic alignment. Therefore, when you come to look at today's arrangements and offers, you should bear in mind that your ideas, thoughts and actions may not make sense for another few days.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Mercury, your planetary ruler, is sowing the seeds for some truly amazing ideas and meetings, but you will have to put the brakes on within a few days. If you now insist on carrying your ideas to their logical conclusion, you may end up in the middle of nowhere!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Strangely enough, a current development may be so secret that not even you know what's going on. Indeed, it looks as if you are about to be overwhelmed by forgetfulness! You may entertain yourself by associating with unusual people and visiting new places.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Do spare a little time to sort out all those niggling cash questions, especially if other people are involved. Only when the Moon settles down next week will a public or professional problem be solved. Until then you may have to make do with half an answer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The Moon's various challenges to your sign will bring criticisms from partners and people you live with. This could be exceedingly helpful for, although it may be annoying when other people claim to know best, the fact is that they may indeed be right!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Do keep yourself busy, but don't lose sight of the larger picture. The events and questions which concern you at work may be downright trivial compared with the wider ethical and moral issues. Success will count for little if you alienate partners in the process.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Now that a financial arrangement is going into reverse you must be very wary of seductive promises and cast-iron guarantees. There is very little to gain from taking risks today, and nothing to be said for taking loved ones' lasting support for granted.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Partnership is everything. Yet you will have to be very patient from now and for the next three weeks, for it looks likely that someone will try to duck out of a commitment. The fact that they may have very good reasons won't make their behaviour any less irritating.

PFI raids: Lawyers association says govt weaponising agencies

Advocates term raids as clampdown on voices speaking up to abuse of state power

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE All Indian Lawyers' Association for Justice (AILAJ) has hit out at the government for the raids on Popular Front of India (PFI), stating that it's a case of weaponising investigative agencies.

The association said the allegations levelled against PFI are "bare, having no reference to any actual incident or crime".

AILAJ also pointed out that the countrywide raids took place on the same day that the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) had sought that court reject an application from ex-RSS member Yashwant Shinde in the 2006 Nanded bomb blast case. Shinde had alleged that several RSS and VHP meetings had discussed plans to bomb several places in the country.

"Weaponisation of the government's investigative agencies and criminal law could not be clearer, and AILAJ condemns such politically motivated abuse of government machinery, which is also a clampdown on voices speaking up to abuse of state power," AILAJ president Maitreyi Krishnan said in a statement.

The association also said that National Investigation Agency (NIA) officials have been quoted as justifying the raids, stating that PFI had links to Dalit organisations.

"We also believe this is a conscious attempt to spread Islamophobia among the public and demonise Muslims as a community, which is already reeling under an all-out attack by the RSS-BJP, using the state apparatus as state-sponsored mob violence," said Maitreyi.

AT a time when the Congress has launched the 'PayCM' campaign, alleging that the ruling BJP dispensation is a "40% commission government", Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has responded that criticism are like a tonic to him, which he will effectively utilise in reaching his goals.

Speaking at the valedictory of Modi Yug Utsav, a week-long event organised by MLA S A Ramdas to ensire that the Central and state government schemes reach the residents of his constituency, as part of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's birthday, Bommai said criticisms help boost his confidence level.

"Over the last two to three decades, I have been receiving criticism, which is not very new to me. I believe that politicians think about the next election, while a statesman thinks about the future generation. Any criticism against me will not dampen me, but rather boost my spirit to do more. I use such criticism as steps to reach my goal," he said.

Bommai said that the Congress and its leaders are known only to announce schemes during their term, but do nothing to execute them and help the people. "But the Narendra Modi-led Central Government has successfully implemented the direct benefit transfer scheme and used the digitalisation process effectively. All the programmes and schemes of the government are reaching the beneficiaries directly, avoiding the involvement of middlemen," he said.

He expressed happiness over Ramdas' initiative in taking various state and Central Government schemes to more than 70,000 families in his constituency, making it exemplary for the country. Meanwhile, the CM also laid the foundation stone for works worth Rs 181.56 crore in the constituency and distributed certificates and laptops to beneficiaries.

Cong's charges politically motivated: Bommai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Sunday charged that the Congress' accusations against his government were politically-motivated, considering the forthcoming state Assembly polls.

He reiterated that the Congress has tarnished the state's image by launching the 'PayCM' campaign, when the grand old party is tainted with too many scams. Speaking to mediapersons here, he said the Congress is on the verge of extinction. "I am not scared of the charges levelled against me as the youth know the truth and sense it from social media," he said.

'No impact from Yatra'

Bommai said that the BJP's lotus has gained wherever Rahul Gandhi has travelled, and his visit will not have any impact here. He said that the Congress MP's entry into Mysuru during the Bharat Jodo Yatra will have no impact, as the saffron party has won in places Rahul has campaigned.

WE TALK CORRUPTION, BJP TALKS CASTE, SAYS KHANDRE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

THE PayCM campaign by the Congress is not against any particular caste, creed or individual, it is a 'Clean-up Karnataka' campaign against corruption, said Congress Working President Eshwar Khandre.

Addressing a press conference in Bidar city, Khandre said corruption is rampant in all sectors of the state, from the panchayat to the ministerial level. It has hurt poor people, farmers, middle classes and the common man. To dub this fight against corruption "anti-Lingayat" is condemnable. The campaign is for a better Karnataka and not against any caste or community, Khandre said.

Elaborating, he said the Contractors' Association has alleged that there is a mandatory 40 per cent commission that contractors have to pay to get their work bills passed. Talented, educated and deserving people are not getting jobs, whether it is PSI recruitment, KPTCL or teachers recruitment, or and transfers of government posts, there is corruption in all sectors, he added. "As soon as the PayCM campaign was launched, it was portrayed as Lingayats being insulted. It was raised to divert attention from the issue of corruption, there is a need to ask how much the BJP government has insulted and neglected Veerashaiva Lingayats," he added. "Dingaleshwar Swami of Balehosur Mutt had claimed that he was asked for a 30 per cent bribe to release money sanctioned to the Mutt. Is this not insult to the Lingayat community?"

Santosh Patil, the contractor who accused former minister K S Eshwarappa of corruption and ended his life, was a Lingayat, said Khandre. Eshwarappa has been given a clean chit, and this is an injustice to the Lingayat-Veerashaiva community and Patil's family. He claimed that the Congress has always been protecting the interests of Lingayat-Veerashaivas and all other communities.

IT, ED, CBI misused

Questioning the Income Tax and ED raids against opposition leaders, Khandre asked whether all BJP leaders are clean, and whether politicians accused of corruption suddenly become pure on joining the BJP. "Agencies give reports and clean chits according to the whims and fancies of the government. Let BJP first provide a transparent administration instead of misusing official machinery for targeting opposition leaders and protecting the corrupt," he said.

BJP diverting graft charges with caste card: Priyank

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

CONGRESS leader Priyank Kharge has hit out at BJP ministers for allegedly shielding themselves under the caste banner, while being questioned about rampant corruption by the Opposition parties.

He said that the ministers, who are accused of rampant corruption, are desperately trying to save their face by playing the caste card and winning over the people.

Defending the Congress' campaign against corruption with its 'PayCM' posters and QR codes, he said that the QR codes for recruitment in various departments is shared by their own party and officers, and not cooked up by the Congress, he clarified.

Speaking to reporters here, Kharge said the BJP is known for its standard operating procedure of 'Corruption, Commission, and Communalism', whenever it comes under fire for its failures and poor governance.

Denying that the Congress has tarnished the image of Karnataka by making the '40 per cent commission' charge against the Basavaraj Bommai gorverment, he wondered how will it dent the image of the state when they have raised the interest of the people and the 25 lakh unemployed youths, who had applied for jobs in various departments.

Lashing out at the BJP leaders for calling Congress as 'anti-Lingayat', Kharge asked why they made "Yediyurappa step down in tears".

"Are minister Madhuswamy, ex-ministers Vishwanath, Eshwarappa, and Renukacharya, all anti-Lingayats for speaking out against the government? Why didn't they bring the Lingayat factor, when veteran Yediyurappa was unceremoniously shunted from the CM gaddi? he asked.

Accusing the BJP government of working against the Basava philosophy, Kharge demanded that the government order a judicial probe into corruption of the previous and present governments. Congress is not running and is ready to face any probe to bring the corrupt to book," he added.

Meanwhile, criticising the BJP for displaying black flags and throwing eggs at Opposition leader Siddaramaiah's vehicle, he said the CM should know that the Congress is not into dirty politics, but it is the BJP that is doing dirty politics by purchasing MLAs to form governments.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

Dr Ashwath up against trust deficit

Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan may have got a pat on his back from the BJP high command for pro-actively implementing the National Education Policy, but is facing corruption charges on the home front. Former CM HD Kumaraswamy started the campaign, alleging that the minister had approved the amendment of a deed of BMS Educational Trust, and hinting that he had taken kickbacks for the illegality. He also claimed that as CM, he had rejected it. Dr Ashwath, it is said, complained in close political circles that when former CM B S Yediyurappa was also a signatory to the proposal, why should he alone face flak. But Kumaraswamy was not ready to drag Yediyurappa into the issue. Interestingly, through this attack, neither Yediyurappa nor Law Minister JC Madhuswamy came to Ashwath's defence... These wheels within wheels in politics can be fascinating.

Copycat Covid effect bane of schools

The Covid-19 pandemic may have petered out, but it did leave behind a dangerous habit: copying during exams. Reports from many educational institutions spoke about rampant copying. School and college staff complained that in the two Covid years, children were used to doing exams at home, and are used to copying. Now back in classrooms, they are finding it difficult to kick the habit. Colleges and schools are quite helpless and are wondering how to get their students to get rid of this one dangerous habit -- some teachers are trying to make the syllabus more interesting for children, so they avoid the copycat habit. There are also jokes doing the rounds that India must be the only country where parents go in search of leaked question papers during SSLC\Class 10 and PUC II exams.

STATE UNIVERSITIES YEARN FOR STAFF, BETTER INFRA

BIG PICTURE

ASHWINI M SRIPAD

THE Karnataka government passed the Karnataka State Universities (Amendment) Bill to create seven more new universities -- at Bidar, Haveri, Chamarajanagar, Hassan, Ballari, Kodagu and Bagalkote. This takes the number of universities to 30 across the state.

With a rise in the number of colleges, Karnataka -- that had a couple of universities a few decades ago – had to carve out new universities. Karnataka is one among top states preferred by students from across the country, and some even outside India. It is also one among the top states to add more new colleges every year.

By contrast, these government universities lack infrastructure, face shortage of teaching and non-teaching staff, and even face quality of education. The Karnataka State Universities Act was passed 22 years ago. "It was relevant then, but things have changed. Therefore, we are bringing in the Karnataka State Public Higher Education Institutions Bill as well as Karnataka State Private Higher Education Institutions Bill", said Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan.

Team TNIE looks into the status of existing universities across the state.

UNIVERSITY OF HORTICULTURAL SCIENCE, BAGALKOT

The state's only University of Horticultural Science in Bagalkot is dealing with many issues, including shortage of teaching and non-teaching staff, lack of infrastructure and funds to conduct research and pay bills for administrative expenses. A total of nine horticultural colleges are operating under UHSB. The activities of the university have spread across 26 districts of the state. Dr K M Indresh, Vice-Chancellor of UHSB, said, "The varsity is facing at least 40 per cent shortage of teaching staff alone, which is affecting academic activities. We have asked retired professors to conduct classes."

KARNATAKA STATE AKKAMAHADEVI WOMEN'S UNIVERSITY, VIJAYAPURA

The state's only women's university is in bad shape, and not different from other universities of the state. Even after two decades, many science departments are yet to have permanent teaching staff. It offers 32 postgraduation courses and colleges across the state. The university lacks funds to carry out research works and develop infrastructure on the main campus. "We have brought this to the notice of the government but did not receive proper response," said Vice-Chancellor BK Tulasimala.

GULBARGA UNIVERSITY, KALABURAGI

Of 248 sanctioned posts for teaching staff, 129 posts are vacant. As per norms, there should be one Professor, two Associate Professors and four Assistant Professors in each department. None of the 39 departments of Gulbarga University meet this criteria. Recently, it was in the news for appointing ineligible people as evaluators for papers of graduate students. Vice-Chancellor Prof. Dayanand Agasar said that for over 15 years now, there has been no recruitment in the university. At present, 247 guest teachers work here.

KARNATAKA FOLKLORE UNIVERSITY, HAVERI

The only folklore university in the country, it is located at Gotagodi in Haveri district, and was established in 2011. In the past 11 years, the state government has not recruited a single staffer. From the vice-chancellor to the office clerk, they are either deputed here on hired on contract basis. Many contract-based workers allege they are not given a proper salary, and there are pending funds for contract employees' salaries. Students show interest in gaining admission here, but due to lack of facilities, some return to other varsities or private colleges to pursue their master's degree.

KARNATAK UNIVERSITY, DHARWAD

At Karnatak University, there is a prolonged problem with regard to recruitment. For the past few years, the varsity has been running the show with half its sanctioned staff strength, both teaching and non-teaching. The shortage of teaching staff is made up for by part-time or contract-based lecturers, and recently, they commenced a protest demanding a hike in payment. The varsity also faces lack of grants for infrastructure.

BANGALORE UNIVERSITY, BENGALURU

While universities in Bengaluru are relatively older and well-established, they face their own share of trouble. "Bangalore University has a system in place for faculty, so if there is a shortage, it is immediately filled with guest faculty. As of now, departments are functioning, but some have had to hire guest faculty due to retirement age being hit. However, we have heard that Bengaluru City University and Bengaluru North University have been facing issues with hiring faculty as they are newer universities," said a non-teaching staff of Bangalore University, who wished to remain anonymous. BU has also been cloaked in controversy, with allegations related to mismanagement of funds, failure to promote and frictions between vice-chancellors and Syndicate members. The university saw delays in appointing a vice-chancellor due to a Supreme Court case over discrepancies in the appointment of former vice-chancellor Prof K R Venugopal. The issue cropped up due to the Karnataka Governor's failure to take the agreement of the state government in appointing the vice-chancellor.

RGUHS, BENGALURU

Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences has also been involved in controversy, with allegations against its registrar Dr Ramakrishna Reddy for holding five different positions and drawing salaries for all positions, with a complaint currently filed with the Lokayukta. Sources from Karnataka Samskrit University said that while most positions have been filled, the university is still operating with 80 per cent staff. The university was also in the midst of controversy earlier this year, after being granted Rs 320cr by the government.

MANGALURU UNIVERSITY

At Mangalore University, only salaries are given by the government while all other expenses are borne by the university. There is no income. Now, this salary amount is also not being given, and there have been many temporary lecturers for the past 10 years. Earlier, the university used to get funds from the Central and State governments for providing basic infrastructure. But now it has been completely stopped to provide basic infrastructure like improvisation of the library, laboratory, sports section, IT and information technology. UGC funds were released for every project, which has stopped now. "Many teaching posts are not filled and most of the present staff are on temporary basis," former Senate and Syndicate member M G Hegde said.

HAMPI KANNADA UNIVERSITY

Hampi Kannada University is at present facing a financial crunch. Even guest faculty are not getting their salaries since the past four or five months. Sources from Kannada University said it's really unfortunate to mention that Kannada University is struggling to survive due to a financial crunch. To maintain the university, they needed Rs 15 to 20 crore monthly. Many students are not getting scholarships, and guest lecturers are waiting for salaries for the past four months. Most of the buildings need to be repaired.

UNIVERSITY OF MYSURU, MYSURU

The oldest university of the state, the century-old University of Mysore had a total of 660 teaching posts and has only around 280 who are serving as permanent employees while other posts are vacant. The varsity is dependent fully on guest faculty members, and repeated attempts by varsity officials to the government to start the recruitment process has not been given consent, which has also cost them in getting good grade in NAAC accreditation.

GANGUBAI HANGAL MUSIC AND PERFORMING ARTS UNIVERSITY, MYSURU

Gangubai Hangal Music and Performing Arts University is no exception as it suffers from not having its own building even after the government identified two places for it. The papers are gathering dust, without proper execution. Meanwhile, the varsity has issues related to teaching faculty as most of them are temporary teaching staff, while non-teaching staff have been protesting for more than 100 days after they were sacked from their jobs, without giving a proper reason. The varsity also suffers from financial crunch.

KARNATAKA STATE OPEN UNIVERSITY, MYSURU

Karnataka State Open University, established in 1992, which got re-recognition from UGC, is doing well with admissions. But the bad news is infighting between varsity officials and allegations of misappropriation of funds and irregularities, putting students in a dilemma.

Muslim man smashes religious barriers, heads Durga Puja for over 3 decades

SUKANTA SAHU @ Baripada (Odisha)

LOVE and compassion for people can transcend the boundaries of faith and establish communal harmony without even seeking to establish it. Kahinoor Islam proves it with his deeds. This 74-year-old Muslim resident has been the sole reason Tentulidinga village under Gangraj gram panchayat has its own Durga Puja celebration today.

Back in 1986, upon seeing women of the village travel to Baripada town just to take part in Durga Puja, he came up with the idea of starting the festival in their own village.

Why can't we hold our own puja, he asked? When he shared his suggestions with villagers, they agreed to his proposal and with funds collected from locals, the Tentulidinga Durga Puja Committee was established. Since then Kahinoor is discharging the responsibility of committee head with around 500 members.

"It is only because of villagers' support and encouragement that I'm able to keep the committee running and have been successfully conducting the Durga Puja festival for the past 37 years," said Kahinoor adding that he was only 34 when he took charge of the committee. His two daughters Taha Parveen and Joha lend financial support in running the committee. Taha is an executive with an US-based company in Pune while younger sister Joha is an Economics post graduate. Both are proud of what their father has been doing with such devotion for the last 37 years. The best part of the celebration at Tentulidinga is people from different walks of life, despite belonging from other communities, provide financial support to the committee to facilitate its smooth running.

Kahinoor Islam has been the sole reason Tentulidinga village has its own Durga Puja celebration today

"The devotion in Kahinoor's heart for the puja towers over elaborate decoration, lights and pandal," said Paritosh Nanda, who as a priest, has been attending to the puja duties of the committee for the past 21 years.

"After the rituals get over, we distribute prasad to people of all communities living in the village. The puja celebrations are being successfully carried out for last 37 years only because of our elder brother Kahinoor," said the committee member Bijan Das.

A CLASS 8 student of Mahatma Jyothipule Gurukula School in Wyra, Garlapati Jaswanth, suffered 40% burn injuries when a large vessel of hot sambar which he was shifting from the cooking shed to the dining hall along with two other students fell on him. The incident took place on Saturday. District Collector VP Gowtham suspended the school's headmaster P Mallaiah and warden S K Pasha on Sunday.

While the agency which holds the contract for cooking for the school students, should place all the dishes in the hall, it regularly tells students to carry out the task. Thirteen-year-old Jaswanth was holding one end of the vessel when he slipped and fell. The piping hot sambar in the vessel fell on his face, torso, hands and legs leading to burns.

Other students who were witness to the incident alerted the school staff who shifted Jaswanth to the Khammam government hospital. The boy was later shifted to a private hospital. His condition is reported to be stable. The Collector passed orders to cancel the cooking contract of the agency.

WELCOME RSS ATTEMPT AT RECONCILIATION WITH MUSLIM COMMUNITY

The first-ever visit of RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat to a mosque and a madrasa last week suggests a sincere purpose beyond reproach. In the past, he had made conciliatory remarks saying Hindutva without Muslims has no meaning. In the context of the Gyanvapi controversy, he had said, 'you can't go looking for a Shivling under every mosque'. But his maiden visit to Islamic institutions took the outreach to the next level. It cemented a late realisation that the entire Muslim community cannot be vilified for radical acts of a few and that national integration would be incomplete without representation of all sections of the population. He said as much at a meeting he had with five prominent Muslim intellectuals last month—former Lt Governor Najeeb Jung, former CEC S Y Quraishi, former vice chancellor Zameer Uddin Shah, former MP Shahid Siddiqui and businessman Saeed Shervani. While politicians like Owaisi dissed it, calling the intellectuals rootless elite, the fact that they set up a talks table ought to be applauded. How else can knotty problems be addressed in a democracy? At the meeting, Bhagwat accepted their anguish at labelling all Indian Muslims as Pakistanis or jihadis. Likewise, he said calling all Hindus kafirs (interpreted by radicals as enemies of Islam) was not fair either. Bhagwat also articulated the perceived insensitivity from the other side to the cow, considered holy by Hindus. He had no patience for hotheads spitting venom like those in the controversial Dharm Sansads. Bhagwat was also emphatic that the Sangh was committed to respecting the supremacy of the Constitution.

The Sangh began grappling with the Muslim question at least since the early 1990s, as it realised that Muslims could not be wished away because of the sheer size of their population. The Muslim Rashtriya Manch was floated to platform nationalists within the community. But instead of approaching integration the way Gandhiji did, the Sangh first worked on unlocking Hindu majoritarian power. A few months ago, at Prime Minister Narendra Modi's bidding, the BJP started reaching out to the poor Pasmanda Muslims to add to its vote bank.

Bhagwat taking the lead for rapprochement ought to be welcomed. But it will not be easy to contain firebrand VHP and BJP elements and their invectives like Babar ki aulad and abbajaan. If PFI that radicalises the youth needs to be parallelly crushed, so be it. Fostering communal amity is the only way forward for inclusive growth.

END KERALA RHETORIC, GET ON WITH JOBS

That Kerala Governor Arif Mohammed Khan is angry with Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan, and his LDF government is an understatement. He is absolutely livid and makes it clear at every opportunity—pouring his sense of outrage into the sympathetic ears of the media almost every day. With Vijayan too deciding to reply in kind, the exchange has breached the boundaries of a civil debate.

In what could lead to a constitutional crisis, the governor has declared he will not sign two bills recently passed by the Kerala assembly. One pertains to changes made in rules for appointing vice-chancellors in state universities, and the other is intended to alter the Lok Ayukta Act. Khan contends that the University Laws (Amendment) Bill is aimed at curbing his powers as chancellor and enabling the government to have a decisive say in the selection of VCs, thus compromising the autonomy of universities. His objection to the Lok Ayukta (Amendment) Bill is that it would enable a public servant accused of illegal actions to be "a judge in his own cause".

His outbursts indicate Khan has many bones to pick with the government and is repeatedly raking up a 2019 incident to attribute direct and indirect roles to the government and chief minister in what he considers was an attempt to intimidate him and cause physical harm. The said incident occurred during the Indian History Congress at Kannur University, where he was involved in a skirmish with historian Irfan Habib. The governor certainly has a duty to point out illegalities and lapses in the state government's actions. But, as a representative of the Centre, the governor is also expected to facilitate the smooth functioning of the democratic system, not stall it. When a bill passed by the assembly is presented, the governor has four options—clear it immediately, temporarily withhold, reserve it for the consideration of the President or return without signing. The only option before the government if the governor does not exercise any of the options is to approach the judiciary. That is a situation both the government and governor will do well to avoid. Both must also tone down the rhetoric, which is as pointless as it is acerbic. The current standoff doesn't augur well for democracy. The governor must perform his duty and let the government carry on with its.

DON'T LET PILOTS DOZE OFF

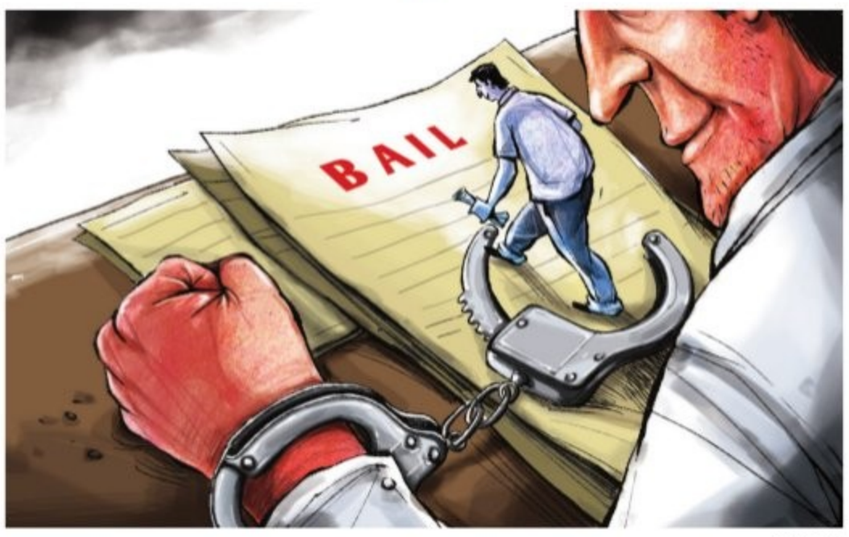
Many airline pilots feel sleepy on early morning flights. A survey says 66% of them doze off, often unknowingly. Most affected are pilots who get up at 3 am, the critical rest period, disturbing their body clocks. Pilot fatigue is scary; despite safe trips, a considerable risk. The authorities are already aware of this. But there's no piecemeal solution because fatigue isn't just about lack of sleep. Automated, modern navigation systems reduce the scope of a pilot intervention. So, they fight ennui on long-haul flights. It's imperative to reconcile technology, physical activity and the biological need for sleep.

Jail is not merely an exception; it is a predicament that a mighty state imposes upon a helpless individual

JUST TO REMIND, BAIL IS THE RULE OF DEMOCRACY

KALEESWARAM RAJ

Lawyer, Supreme Court of India



SOURAV ROY

The Supreme Court, on September 9, passed an order granting bail to journalist Siddique Kappan. He has been in custody since October 6, 2020. The bail now granted is a gesture of compassion with a sense of constitutional duty. It is a moment of relief for many in the media who fought for his release.

The charge against Kappan was that he carried literature demanding justice for the Hathras gang rape victim. Chief Justice U U Lalit, while granting bail to the journalist, emphasised the citizen's right to free expression and propagation of ideas. Justice Ravindra Bhat, who too was on the Bench, indicated that even rape laws in the country were reformed following a public protest.

In the instant case, Kappan was charged under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA), along with certain provisions in the Indian Penal Code and the Information Technology Act. But for the charges under the UAPA, he would have been, probably, released earlier. The long delay in his release is also the result of the invocation of the draconian law.

The freedom index of a nation is always discernible from its police stations and prisons. Bail is not merely a rule. It is the rule of democracy. Jail is not merely an exception; it is a predicament that a mighty state imposes upon a helpless individual.

In recent times, with the release of Teesta Setalvad, Mohammed Zubair, Varavara Rao and the like, who were essentially political prisoners and undertrials, the Supreme Court has done well by performing its role, at least to a limited extent. However, many prisoners of conscience are still languishing in jail for the offence of being dissenters.

In India, the judicial philosophy against unnecessary or vexatious arrest and detention is almost well settled. In Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia (1980), a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court took a liberal view on pre-arrest bail.

The idea that anticipatory bail could be granted only in exceptional cases was repelled by the top court in Siddharam Satlingappa (2010). The court explained the idea of liberty. It said that "no arrest should be made because it is lawful for the police officer to do so" and that "the arrest should be the last option and it should be restricted to those exceptional cases where arresting the accused is imperative in the facts and circumstances" of the case. It was a grand reiteration of humanism in Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia.

Very recently, in Satender Kumar Antil v. CBI (2022), the Supreme Court went further. The court affirmed the earlier judicial admonition against arbitrary arrest and detention indicated in Sanjay Chandra v. CBI (2011), Arnesh Kumar v. State of Bihar (2014), S. Kasi v. State (2020) and Arnab Goswami v. State of Maharashtra (2020). It explained the fundamental postulates of penal law, like the presumption of innocence and the constitutional rights of the accused. It explained the liberal provisions in the Criminal Procedure Code (CrPC) to say that arrest is not inevitable in all cases. The most significant part of the judgment in Satender Kumar is that it appealed for the promulgation of a Bail Act in India in tune with those prevailing in certain other jurisdictions.

According to the 2020 report of the National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB), there are 4,88,511 prisoners in the country. Out of them, 3,71,848 (76%) are undertrials. Of this, 68% were found either illiterate or dropouts from schools.

In India, a discourse on bail jurisprudence should address two fundamental issues, namely, judicial attitude to the bail pleas at the ground level and the prevalence of draconian statutes like UAPA, which creates legal obstacles against the grant of bail.

Last July, while addressing judges of the subordinate judiciary, Justice Sanjay Kishan Kaul of the Supreme Court openly called for a humanistic approach to criminal prosecutions. The judge, among other things, said that denying bail foreseeing the possibility for acquittal is neither correct nor judicious. The long delay in deciding the bail plea is another issue. Recently, a Supreme Court Bench of Justice Ajay Rastogi and B V Nagarathna disapproved of such practice adopted by Chhattisgarh High Court. In many high courts, this procedural aberration is a harsh reality.

Sometimes, delay in hearing the appeals against conviction perpetuates the punishment imposed by the trial court by the continued incarceration of the accused. The Supreme Court recently opined that, in normal circumstances, "all persons who have completed ten years of the sentence and appeal is not in a near proximity of hearing" should be released on bail.

The proposal for Bail reforms in India was made in the 268th report of the Law Commission. The Bail Act of New South Wales (2013) is meant to ensure "the integrity of the justice system" and "the general right to be at liberty". The purpose of this enactment is "to provide a legislative framework" to test the requirement of detention of the accused. The Bail Act of the United Kingdom (1976) is another significant model.

However, in a country where even political prisoners had to seek judicial order to obtain straws or mosquito nets, the criminal law loses its functional characteristics. Then, the practice of the law becomes antithetical to its own content. The generous provisions in CrPC or the judgments on bail often do not come to the rescue of the person who really needs them in a concrete situation. On the ground, India suffers attitudinal deficits and issues of proper law enforcement.

We need to rewrite our laws wherever they are contrary to modern bail jurisprudence. Rather than a new law on bail, the judiciary at the grassroots level needs to develop compassion for the poor and the indigent and an understanding of their plight. It should assert that the detention of an individual is not a matter of routine. Ideally, the trial courts should be able to fix liability on the state for detaining the accused under draconian laws by treating them as victims of such laws.

The courts in India should also oversee and ensure the proper implementation of the benevolent provisions already existing in the CrPC. If we can do this course correction, a separate Bail Act may not even be necessary. In the absence of such introspection, even a new Bail Act might not fully help us.

THE FOUR SILLY PRINCES AND THE TESU TREE

RENUKA NARAYANAN

FAITHLINE

Royalty has been on show all week in the UK, and the ceremonies very visibly upheld the continuity of the British monarchy. It took me back to an amusing Jataka about the education of princes. Teaching good sense and responsibility is a favourite theme in old Indian stories, which probably explains why they are still around.

The tale goes that King Brahmadatta of Kashi was fed up with his four sons, each one of whom seemed more doltish than the other. They were getting on into their teens, almost men by Indian reckoning. But they still fought like babies and paid no attention to their teachers. Nor did they seem aware of their impending duties as princes of the realm—although they were fully acquainted with each and every one of their many rights. Their father wanted to teach them some common sense and jolt them out of their stupidity. To this end, he conspired with the 'Bodhisattva', born this time as the king's trusty charioteer. 'Bodhisattva' means the Buddha in his previous births.

The Bodhisattva noticed a tesu tree at some distance from the palace and made his plans accordingly. The tesu is also called dhak and palash (and Butea monosperma, in case of surpassing interest). Its common English name is 'flame of the forest'. Its brilliant orange flowers are used even today to make a coloured dye to smear on everyone at Holi. The tree also has its uses in traditional medicine, especially the bark, which is said to treat as many as fifteen bodily disorders, from eye trouble and nasal bleeding to stomach upsets and joint pain.

Its Sanskrit name is 'kimshuka' and it is mentioned in both the Ramayana and the Mahabharata. In the Ramayana, the bleeding wounds left by Indrajit's magic arrows are compared to kimshuka flowers. This name is said to be derived from the Sanskrit phrase kimchitshukaiva or 'somewhat like a parrot' because the flowers look like the parrot's red curved beak. It is the state flower of Jharkhand and is a sacred tree in both Hinduism and Buddhism. Moreover, this tree has the most curious link with British rule.

The Battle of Plassey in 1757 established colonial power in India. 'Plassey' comes from 'palashi' meaning the palash or tesu tree. I happen to have been to the site just a year ago, and it's such a peaceful, rural stretch that it's hard to imagine that such a decisive battle took place there.

To get back to the Bodhisattva, though, the four foolish princes were first told all kinds of fanciful tales about the tesu. They were then nudged by the king to ask the Bodhisattva to show them one. The Bodhisattva took the oldest prince to see the tesu when it had just put forth leaves of tender green. He took the second prince to see it when it was beginning to bud. He took the third prince to see it in its full, flowering glory, while the fourth prince got to see it when the flowering was done and only brown pods remained.

> Looking at the foolish, trusting faces of his stupid sons, King Brahmadatta suffered a tiny fatherly pang for what he was about to do, but knew very well that his duty as king came first

The princes were given over so wholly to pleasure and had so little interest or curiosity in anything beyond their daily gratification that they never thought to discuss these little field trips or compare notes.

The king had counted on this, and when all four were done with tesu sightings, he set them up for fine and thorough public disgrace. He commanded their presence at an event in court on the pretext that they were getting to be big boys and needed to take an interest in their public duties. Having dressed up and marched in proudly, the princes were arranged on small golden seats around the king, where all the assembled praja could see them.

There was a good representation of subjects. All the nobility was there, of course, and the nagarseths or big merchants of immense wealth; and by special invitation, so were the heads of every trade, craft and professional guild alongside five guild members each, as were hoi polloi of every kind at the back. Even the most famous and beautiful nagarvadhus or public women had taken their place, determined not to miss whatever was going on, for word had mysteriously spread in Kashi that the four silly princes, a blot on their fair and blessed city, were going to be made a spectacle of by their desperate father.

Looking at the foolish, trusting faces of his stupid sons, King Brahmadatta suffered a tiny fatherly pang for what he was about to do, but knew very well that his duty as king came first.

After the customary opening formalities of a court (the oboes blew slightly off-key in excitement, but only the nagarvadhus noticed), the king introduced his sons to the praja and got down to the unpleasant task at hand.

"To assure the public of your worthiness, demonstrate your powers of observation. Tell them, for instance, what a tesu tree looks like," he said invitingly.

"It has tiny leaves," said the eldest confidently.

"Oh no, it is covered in small buds," said the second prince.

"Both of you are mistaken. It is covered in bright orange flowers," said the third prince.

"What are you talking about? It's a bare tree with only pods," said the fourth prince.

They fell to arguing loudly until called to order by the king. The scandalised praja booed them soundly for their unbecoming and utterly dangerous silliness, and the four thoroughly abashed princes were told sternly to always get the whole picture and to see a situation from all angles. We don't know if they improved after that, but since their story is in a Jataka, we must not only let them have the benefit of the doubt but also ask ourselves if we, too, can benefit from this ancient tale.

I, for one, can never look at a tesu tree again without recalling this Jataka and its denouement.

Hindu-hating culture in West

Mr Prabhu Chawla's column, Western Hinduphobia is an envious backlash (Sep 25), is an excellent, brilliantly accurate and precise column. As a western academic researching international strategy, I could not agree more. The Five Eye countries (UK, US, Canada, Australia, New Zealand), particularly the first three, have become hot beds of anti-Hindu feelings driven by the jealous locals and also a few western and even Indian so-called academics like Audrey Trushke. The mainstream western media including Times in London and New York Times are feeding this frenzy.

It is disappointing to see the damage the PFI hartal has caused. They destroyed public property including 70 KSRTC buses, culminating in a loss of ₹45 lakh. They did this just to show their strength. # Army-police joint ops foil terror bids in J&K

Better intelligence helps eliminate terrorists, 2 killed while crossing LoC in Machil sector on Sunday

MAYANK SINGH & FAYAZ WANI @ New Delhi/Srinagar

THE success of joint operations in neutralising terrorists on Sunday is manifestation of the focus on active operations based on precise intelligence. Army and Jammu Kashmir police foiled the infiltration bid of the terrorist and neutralised two terrorists with a coordinated operation involving the overall anti terrorist and anti infiltration grid. This was the second attempt to infiltrate LoC from Pakistan side amidst the ongoing ceasefire agreement reiterated by Pakistan and India.

Defence spokesman in Srinagar Colonel Emron Musavi said that based on specific intelligence inputs from police and other intelligence agencies about a likely infiltration attempt by militants in Machil sector, troops deployed at the LoC were put on maximum alert. The joint ambushes by Army and policemen were laid on likely routes of infiltration, he said.

While on Sunday the infiltration bid of militants in Machil sector in border district of Kupwara in Jammu and Kashmir by killing two armed militants. Four other terrorists were killed this month in two hinterland operations.

"At around 7.30 am on Sunday, troops observed two armed infiltrators crossing the LoC near Tekri Nar in Machal sector. The infiltrating militants were challenged and fired upon by troops," the spokesman said.

He added that the militants also fired on the troops and in the ensuing gunfight, both the infiltrating militants were killed. "Two AK-47 rifles, two pistols and four hand grenades were recovered. Further details shall follow," a police spokesperson said in a tweet on Kashmir Police Zone handle.

Another Army official said that the identity of the slain militants and the outfit to which they owe alliance was being ascertained.

"We have improved the deployment of the troops both in anti-infiltration and anti-terror grid, are using human and signal intelligence to generate actionable intelligence." said the officer. Meanwhile, a residential house has been attached in north Kashmir's Bandipora "for wilfully sheltering and harbouring militants". The police attached the residential house of Bashir Ahmad Mir of Wanpora Gurez, at present living at Watrina, after obtaining legal sanction from the competent authorities. The house was linked to a case in which two hardcore militants were neutralised on 2021.

The terrorist have been trying to infiltrate into Jammu and Kashmir and this is the second infiltration attempt foiled by troops at the LoC in Kashmir in a month. Earlier, on August 25, the Army had foiled an infiltration attempt of militants in Uri sector of north Kashmir's Baramulla district and killed three infiltrating militants.

"The operations have succeeded primarily due to precise intelligence inputs and the coordination between the various security forces involved in the anti-terrorism grid," told another officer on the condition of anonymity.

There were two more gunfights which took place within the month of September. On September 14 in Srinagar two terrorists were killed in Nowgam area of Srinagar district. This was also a joint operation of the JKP and the Indian Army.

Participation of public will free India of TB: Modi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday in his monthly 'Mann Ki Baat' said people are coming forward and are adopting one TB patient or the other under the 'Pradhan Mantri TB Mukt Bharat Abhiyan' and hoped that the "power of public participation" will free India from TB by 2025. He also mentioned the United Nation (UN) recognition of India's Hypertension Control Initiative, a large-scale hypertension intervention in the country, which covers 3.4 hypertensive people. Modi said "people are coming forward and are adopting one TB patient or the other, taking the lead in ensuring a nutritious diet."

"Actually, it is a part of the TB Free India campaign, whose basis is public participation; a sense of duty. It is possible to cure TB with the right nutrition, with the right medicines at the right time. I believe that with this power of public participation, India will definitely be free from TB by the year 2025," he added. The UN has set 2030 as target for TB elimination but India has announced to end the disease from the country by 2025. According to union health ministry data, over 9.5 lakh tuberculosis patients have been adopted under the 'Pradhan Mantri TB Mukt Bharat Abhiyan', envisioned to bring together all community stakeholders to support those on TB treatment and which was launched by President Droupadi Murmu in September. 9.

Highlighting that there is no other dharma like doing good to others, serving others, and doing charity, Modi cited the example of medical students from Dadra-Nagar Haveli and Daman-Diu who have adopted 50 villages under the initiative.

"These medical students make the people of the village aware to avoid illness, also help in the recuperation, and also impart information about the schemes of the government. This spirit of philanthropy has brought new joy in the lives of the people living in the villages. I congratulate all the students of the medical college for this endeavor," he added.

Under the Abhiyan, 'adopt a TB patient' plan has been included.

Over 19.3 lakh new and relapsed TB patients were notified in 2021 against 16.3 lakh in 2020, according to the TB report 2022. Deaths from TB increased to 4.9 lakh, excluding HIV patients, in 2020, up 13 percent from a year ago. The mortality rate due to all forms of TB between 2019 and 2020 rose by 11 per cent.

CUET-PG result today, UGC directs varsities to prepare for admissions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

Entry to 66 univs

As many as 66 universities, mostly Centre-run, have adopted the CUET-PG for admissions in 2022-23 session. The exams were held in 500 cities and 13 centres abroad from September 1-12.

THE National Testing Agency (NTA) will declare CUET results for admission to postgraduate programmes on September 26, announced University Grants Commission (UGC) chairman Professor Mamidala Jagadesh Kumar on Sunday.

The UGC also wrote to vice-chancellors of all participating universities to make necessary preparations for admissions.

"National Testing Agency (NTA) will declare CUET-PG results on 26 September (Monday) by 4 pm, required for Post-graduate admissions in the participating universities. Best wishes to all the students," Kumar tweeted on Sunday.

In a letter on Sunday to all the universities, state, private and deemed universities that have adopted CUET, UGC said that, "You are requested to make necessary preparations for admissions, including website and web portals, so that the PG admission process may be timely started, based on the CUET score."

Nearly 3.6 lakh candidates — over 1.8 lakh male and 1.7 lakh female — had registered for CUET-PG.

The exam had recorded over 55 per cent attendance. Among the universities, Banaras Hindu University (3.5 lakh) received the maximum number of applications, followed by Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) with 2.3 lakh applications.

The CUET is the new common entrance test for admission to postgraduate programmes at central universities. As many as 66 universities, mostly centre-run, have adopted the computer-based CUET-PG for admissions in the academic session 2022-23. The exams were held in around 500 cities in India and 13 centres abroad from September 1-12.

The CUET-PG score card will be made available on the official website — cuet.nta.nic.in.

Bids open for 7-km undersea tunnel

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

The National High-Speed Rail Corporation Limited (NHSRCL) has sought bids for construction of 21-km-long tunnel including India's first undersea tunnel for the Mumbai-Ahmedabad bullet train project.

A 7-km portion of the 21-km-long tunnel will be constructed under the sea, making it to be India's first.

The work on the corridor has gained momentum after the change in government in Maharashtra, with tenders, which were previously floated and withdrawn, being renewed again, sources said.

Considered the highlight of the project, the tunnel will be built between the underground station at Bandra-Kurla Complex and Shilphata in Thane district of Maharashtra.

The tunnel will be built using tunnel boring machine and the New Austrian Tunneling Method (NATM), according to the tender document.

The 7-km undersea tunnel at Thane Creek will be the first undersea tunnel to come up in the country.

In November last year, NHSRCL had invited bids for underground tunnelling works for the project.

But it was cancelled this year with officials citing "administrative reasons".

In 2019, NHSRCL had first invited tenders for the project but didn't attract any bidder. It again floated tenders in November 2021.

Govt aims to deliver 10L Ayushman Bharat cards daily, says Mandaviya

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE Centre aims to deliver 10 lakh Ayushman Bharat cards daily under the ambitious Ayushman Bharat-Pradhan Mantri Jan Aarogya Yojana (AB PM-JAY) to poor and vulnerable families, said Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya on Sunday. The government has so far issued 19 crore Ayushman Bharat cards, said the health minister as he inaugurated the two-day Arogya Manthan 2022 to celebrate four years of implementation of the AB-PM-JAY and one year implementation of the Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission (ABDM). The government aims to provide 30 crore Ayushman Bharat cards by March next year.

"Earlier 1-1.5 lakh Ayushman cards were made daily, now 4-5 lakh are made daily; my target is to make 10 lakh cards every day," Mandaviya said, adding that PM-JAY has been successful in bridging the gap between the wealthy and underserved population groups in terms of accessibility of healthcare services in the country.

The scheme, billed as the world's largest government-funded public health insurance scheme, seeks to provide 50 crore beneficiaries, which form the bottom 40 per cent of the Indian population, a health cover of ₹5 lakh per family per year for secondary and tertiary care hospitalisation in both private and government hospitals.

Mandaviya said under the Ayushman Bharat Health Infrastructure Mission, about Rs 100 crore will be spent in every district to strengthen the country's health infrastructure.

The ABDM has achieved significant growth with over 24 crores ABHA numbers (earlier known as Health ID), having been generated since its launch on September 21, the minister said.

The minister also launched new initiatives, including a health claims exchange portal, which aims to transform the health insurance claims settlement process in an easy, seamless manner to reduce the time and cost of claims settlement and make the process transparent.

Leopard population poses danger to African cheetahs in Kuno Nat'l Park

CHANDAN NANDY @ New Delhi

EVEN as the eight Namibian cheetahs released into the Kuno National Park (KNP) in Madhya Pradesh on September 17 are gradually acclimatsing to their new surroundings, state wildlife officials are "concerned" about the danger they might face from the large leopard population once they finally find their way into the wild a few months from now.

Speaking to this newspaper, Madhya Pradesh Principal Chief Conservator of Forests (PCCF) J S Chauhan said, "We are preparing ourselves for kinds of challenges ahead, including the danger the cheetahs might face from about 98 leopards. That is the concern". At least 25 leopards were removed from the area the cheetahs will occupy in the first six months and radio-collared for subsequent observation.

Wildlife Institute of India (WII) researchers – nine of them have been continuously observing the cheetahs since they were released into the quarantine zones — are also mindful of potential leopard-cheetah conflicts in the near future. According to the WII, the leopard population density at KNP is nine individuals per 100 sq km. One WII researcher said that intensified observation of the cheetahs will begin once they are moved to the larger, 5-sq-km enclosure. "In the first four to five days, the cheetahs did exhibit aggression whenever vehicles or people went past their enclosures, but they have begun to adapt even in rainy conditions," the researcher said.

Chauhan admitted that the cheetahs are "eating less" than usual in the first few days of their arrival at KNP but they will "stabilise soon". The fastest land animals are being "served dressed buffalo meat twice in four to five days" with each cheetah "consuming an average of 1.5 to 2 kg buffalo meat per day".

Around the middle of August, the cheetahs will be moved to the 5-sq-km zone with nine compartments. Chauhan said that two pairs of female and male cheetahs will be "put together" in one large enclosure while the rest will be in single enclosures. "Depending on their comfort levels, they will be in these enclosures for two to four months before they are allowed to roam free in the 748 sq km expanse of KNP," Chauhan said.

Leadership tussle

ASHOK GEHLOT RISKS LOSING CONG PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION OVER CHIEF MINISTER'S POST

Rajasthan chief minister Ashok Gehlot has dug in his heels over not allowing Sachin Pilot to replace him as state chief minister. Battle lines are drawn between him and the Gandhi family with MLAs loyal to him refusing to sign the resolution authorising party's central leadership to pick his replacement in the event of his election as Congress president. Interim president Sonia Gandhi had sent AICC general secretary Ajay Maken and leader of opposition in Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge to Jaipur to get party MLAs to sign the resolution. But MLAs loyal to Gehlot have refused to sign on the dotted lines. They insist that the new chief minister should be from among the 102 MLAs who had refused to bring the state government down when Sachin Pilot had walked out with a bunch of his loyal MLAs to form a government with the help of the BJP. Gehlot's loyal MLAs, numbering about a 100, have threatened to resign rather than support Sachin. Gehlot has not reacted to this open rebellion by his supporters. Sources said the Gehlot camp's action has not gone down well with the party high command. They said the party leadership is rethinking fielding Gehlot as a candidate for the post of party president. Gehlot had earlier said that his resignation as chief minister before getting elected as party president would indicate that the election result was pre-determined, and the party poll was not really a democratic exercise. He said let there be a fair election, and once he gets elected as president, he would resign as chief minister. Sonia and Rahul are keen on handing over the chief ministership to Sachin Pilot.

2024 Semi-finals

EC TO ANNOUNCE GUJARAT, HP POLL DATES ON OCT 15

The Election Commission of India is likely to sound the poll bugle for Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh on October 15, unlike last time when it had announced the poll dates for the two states separately in spite of the fact that the term of the two assemblies expired within a gap of two weeks. EC officials are likely to visit Gujarat on September 26 to check the poll preparedness of the state. The EC team has already visited Himachal Pradesh. The last assembly elections in Gujarat were held in December 2017, and the schedule is likely to remain the same this time. The election in Gujarat is being keenly watched as the new entrant - Arvind Kejriwal's Aam Aadmi Party – is threatening to eat into the votes of both the BJP and the Congress. The BJP has a strong presence in the urban centres, and has been in power since 1998. The Congress, however, continues to have a large following in the rural areas in spite of not being in power for over two decades. In the last state elections, the BJP polled 49.1 % and won 99 seats, while the Congress got 41.4% and won 77 seats. The AAP remained a non-starter with 0.1% votes and without a seat. Kejriwal has, however, launched a high-voltage campaign in Gujarat this year striking fear in both the BJP and the Congress, not because they think he will win but because they do not know who he will harm more.

Accommodation issues

PM'S MEETING WITH DIGAMBAR KAMAT STIRS GOA POT

Seven-time Goa MLA and former chief minister of the state Digambar Kamat flew into the national capital and was locked in a two-and-half-hour meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi at his residence last week. Though not many know about this one-on-one meeting, those in the know say Kamat may be given an important assignment either in the state or at the Centre. They say he has had excellent relations with Modi from the time he was in the BJP. He recently led eight out of the eleven Congress MLAs into the BJP. There are reports of an imminent ministry reshuffle to accommodate the new entrants in the state government. Sources close to Kamat say the former chief minister and veteran MLA is too senior to be asked to join as a minister. They say that he has been assured that he will get his due for decimating the Congress in the state legislature. While Kamat getting the state chief ministership is not ruled out, the chances of him being brought to the centre as a minister in the next reshuffle are stronger, sources say.

Uttarakhand govt's decision follows outrage over Ankita's murder

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

Mortal remains of Ankita Bhandari being taken for cremation at Srinagar in Pauri Garhwal district on Sunday | PTI

PUSHKAR Singh Dhami, the state's chief minister, has announced that the revenue police will no longer be in charge of maintaining law and order in the state's 1,500 villages. The revenue police have been at the centre of a scandal over how they handled the Ankita Bhandari murder case. The government's decision follows widespread protest over Ankita's death, during which the revenue police's shortcomings were exposed.

Relatives of the 19-year-old receptionist allegedly murdered by a BJP leader's son cremated her on Sunday.

Ankita had been missing since September 18, but after much uproar, her abductors and murderers were found and arrested five days later. After their arrest on September 23, the three suspects—Pulkit Arya, Saurabh, and manager Ankit—admitted to their crime. All of this was the consequence of the revenue police's mistakes, for which the area's revenue officer was suspended.

Although she had been missing for five days, the police didn't start looking for her until the girl's relatives reported her missing and expressed concern for her safety. Even though accusations against the resort owner and other suspects had been made far earlier, it took police five days to act and arrest them. In total, the state has 16793 villages, and more than half of them are concentrated in just four districts: Almora, Chamoli, Garhwal, and Tehri Garhwal.

The revenue patwari police have been in charge of maintaining law and order in these villages since the British rule. However, there are 405 villages with a population of fewer than 10 persons and 1053 settlements that are empty. In order to reduce costs, the British administration established the Patwari police system in 1861. Revenue officers are given the same privileges and responsibilities as police officers.

Only in Uttarakhand have tax collection personnel been given responsibility for maintaining law and order in the state's hilly regions. The Supreme Court emphasised the necessity for regular police to replace the system in 2010, but nothing came of it. Despite claims, no activity is evident on the ground despite the hilly areas' residents' repeated calls for regular policing against this system.

Ironically, no government has expressed a desire to change the framework that controls policing in over half of the state. There is a widespread belief and widespread observation that people frequently do not take revenue policeman seriously. Additionally, the required uniform is not worn by revenue police.

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

Amit Shah to address rally in Kashmir on October 2, BJP expects 40k people

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

IN a major power show in militancy-hit Kashmir ahead of Assembly polls in the Union Territory, Home Minister Amit Shah would be addressing the first major public rally at Degree College, Baramulla in north Kashmir on October 2.

It will be the first major rally to be conducted by the BJP on its own in the Valley, where the saffron party has been trying to make inroads, especially after the abrogation of Article 370 and bifurcation of J&K state into two Union Territories (UTs) by centre on August 5, 2019.

The BJP spokesperson Altaf Thakur said that 40,000 people from three districts of Baramulla, Kupwara and Bandipora would attend the rally.

Prior to the October 2 rally, Shah had addressed party workers at Jawahar Nagar area of Srinagar during campaigning for party candidates for 2014 Assembly polls. Asked why BJP chose Baramulla instead of Srinagar or south Kashmir, a BJP leader said the party has got strong footing in north Kashmir.

"In all the three north Kashmir districts, our party has worked hard on the ground in the last few years and people are now supporting Prime Minister Narendra Modi's agenda of 'Sabka Saath Sabka Vikaas'," he said. Due to the party's work on the ground, the BJP had won a DDC seat from Tulail area, close to Line of Control, in Bandipora district in 2020 DDC polls.

In all the three north Kashmir districts, our party has worked hard on the ground in the last few years and people are now supporting Prime Minister Narendra Modi's agenda of 'Sabka Saath Sabka Vikaas
Altaf Thakur, BJP spokesperson

After Article 370 revocation, BJP has made its presence felt in all 10 districts of the Valley including militancy-hit south Kashmir districts. The party has been very active and holding party workers meetings in all the districts with special focus on north Kashmir, where the party feels it has a good chance of winning a few Assembly seats. A political observer said that if Shah's rally turns out to be a success and people in large numbers attend the rally, then it would send a strong message to other Kashmir-based parties that BJP is emerging as a strong rival for them and they cannot take the saffron party lightly.

Both factions are not vying against each other to get the maximum footfall for this rally so that they can proclaim mega success ahead of the BMC elections. Shinde has given instructions to his people each leader should bring at least 100 people from all part of the state. Shinde is relying on government machinery to get the crowd while Thackeray is relying on his local Shakha Pramukhs and worked to fill the ground.

In search of backers, Gehlot reaches Mumbai

Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot, before filing his nomination for the Congress party's presidential elections, quietly made his visit to India's financial capital and met the big corporate and business houses to get assurance from them as key help during his tenure as Congress president. Without the help of Mumbai's backing, it will be tough for Ashok Gehlot to helm the grand-old party in its fight against the world's largest political party, the Bharatiya Janata Party. It shows that the chief minister is gearing up for a tough fight for the presidential post. On Saturday, he also paid a visit to the Shirdi Saibaba temple in Ahmednagar in the state.

Kejriwal says people will give an answer to BJP, Cong in Assembly polls

AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal and Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann at a gathering in Ahmedabad on Sunday| PTI

AAM Aadmi Party (AAP) chief Arvind Kejriwal on Sunday targeted the ruling BJP as well as the Congress in Gujarat, where Assembly elections are due to be held in December this year. Kejriwal was addressing a gathering of youth in Ahmedabad, where he was accompanied by Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann.

The Delhi Chief Minister told the attendees, "I saw a message shared in a WhatsApp group that said, 'If you vote for Congress, then Sonia Gandhi's son will prosper. If you vote for BJP, Amit Shah's son will prosper. If you vote for AAP, then every single child of Gujarat will prosper'."

He added: "They compare me with a terrorist. Our events got cancelled at the last moment at 12 places. For this hooliganism, people of Gujarat will give an answer."

He hit out at the Opposition, calling the Congress "even worse", and presenting the AAP as an alternative. He said: "Leaders of both the BJP and Congress have stolen so much public money that if their properties are sold, the entire debt of Gujarat can be paid."

Mann also took a jibe at Prime Minister Narendra Modi, and said, "We do not just speak but listen to others as well, whereas the BJP just talks. They should listen to the public's 'mann ki baat'. But they have no habit of listening." Kejriwal promised 10 lakh government jobs by filling teachers' posts in schools, besides opening of new colleges and mohalla clinics, and providing more doctors and healthcare staff in hospitals, among others. He added that if the AAP comes to power in Gujarat, it will curb corruption.

Modi, Priyanka to join Garba in Gujarat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

One of the primary attractions of Gujarat's Navratri celebrations is the traditional dance known as 'Garba', 'Ras-Garba' or 'Dandiya'| EXPRESS

MONDAY is the start of Navratri, which is celebrated in Gujarat with a lot of fanfare. Because of COVID-19 and the nationwide lockdown, this year's Navratri is particularly significant for Gujarat because it has been two years since the previous celebrations. As the Gujarat election draws near, sources claim that PM Narendra Modi and Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi may attend the Garba festival this year.

During Navratri, Gujaratis begin each day by worshipping Goddess Shakti. One of the primary attractions of Gujarat's Navratri celebrations is the traditional dance known as "Garba," "Ras-Garba," or "Dandiya". People do a dance while dressed in traditional Garba costume and using dandiyas (sticks). Additionally, they perform a number of mythical tales through dance. Mega-celebrations for Navratri have recently been planned where a sizable crowd of people attend. People gather and feast on their favourite meals after the Garba. This year, the Gujarat government was given permission to use loudspeakers even after midnight. Gujarat will also have open dining establishments and grocery stores till midnight.

PM Narendra Modi to perform 'aarti'

PM Narendra Modi will perform 'aarti' of Goddess Amba at Ambaji Temple in Banskantha district and will also witness people playing 'Garba' at Ahmedabad on the occasion of Navratri, during his visit to the state on September 29 and 30

Minister of State, Youth, Sports & Culture Harsh Shanghvi said, "In the festival of Durga, Navratri, which is an important part of the culture of Gujarat and the soul of every Gujarati, permission has been given to play loudspeaker for nine days till 12:00 midnight, giving priority to the joy, faith, and emotions of the people."

This time Navratri is a few months before the Gujarat assembly elections, so political parties do not want to miss any opportunity to spread their election campaign through Garba, sources say. PM Narendra Modi will perform 'aarti' of Goddess Amba at Ambaji Temple in Banskantha district and will also witness people playing 'Garba' at Ahmedabad on the occasion of Navratri, during his visit to the state on September 29 and 30.

While Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi's name has also been added to this list. According to the information, Priyanka will visit Gujarat during Navratri. She will do a road show by visiting Shakti Pith of "Mahakali goddess" in Pavagadh and will also attend a Garba in Ahmedabad.

After two years, Garba classes saw huge crowds as everyone wants to enjoy the festival to the fullest and show their dance moves during the Navratri.

Anil Jariwala, who has been running Ras Garba classes in Surat for 32 years, said, "I have been running Garba classes for the past 32 years. The number of people who play Garba is increasing every year, but due to Corona, the people who played Garba had not left their homes for the last two years but this year a large number of people have come to the Garba classes."

Aman, a 22 -year-old Garba enthusiast said, "This year, we will be enjoying Navratri after two years and hence I along with my society friends decided to make the most of it and we have learned various new steps."

As Gujarat readies for famous Festival Navratri, Garba a part of Gujarat's Navratri Celebration itself is inching closer to getting the coveted United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization's tag for Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity. The latest nomination will be considered for the next year's cycle.

Arunachal mountaineers to search for Everesters

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

FOUR Arunachal Pradesh mountaineers will scout for missing Everester Tapi Mra and his assistant Niku Dao as the state government called off an Army- led operation due to inclement weather, avalanches and presence of crevasses.

The two have been reported missing since August 17 after they embarked on scaling Mount Kyarisatam, the state's highest peak located in East Kameng district.

Tagit Sorang, Taru Hai, Ningchong Rava and Tana Loyi, all of them local mountaineers, will conduct the search and rescue operation. Two family members of Mra will also be a part of the team.

On Saturday, members of the Tagin Cultural Society (TCS), along with two of the mountaineers, met Chief Minister Pema Khandu and requested him to airlift the team members at the Mount Kyarisatam.

Tuter Dulom, who is the TCS secretary, told journalists the team would take along other locals once the state government requisitioned an Army helicopter for the mission.

The members of the team signed a bond which, among others, says no claims should be made from the government in the event of loss of life or property. The state government called off the search and rescue operation on September 21 after the rescue team had reported it was extremely dangerous to proceed further or stay in Camp-2 due to bad weather, presence of crevasses and avalanches. Beyond Camp-2 is the peak.

BJP demands CBI probe into WB violence

KOLKATA: The five-member central team of the Bharatiya Janata Party, constituted by J P Nadda, that had visited West Bengal to find out what happened on the day of protest march to the state secretariat, submitted a report to the saffron camp's national president on Saturday seeking CBI probe into the police highhandedness on the party supporters.

Citing TMC's national general secretary and CM Mamata Banerjee's nephew Abhishek Banerjee's statement saying had he been in place of the injured police officer, who got his hand fractured, he would have fired at the forehead of the BJP attackers, the report said the police brutality was designed by the ruling party's higher authorities. The 25-page report also said the national human rights commission should send a team of representatives to Bengal as the police had crushed the people's democratic right to protest. ENS

C'GARH TO REWARD GOOD SAMARITANS

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE transport department in Chhattisgarh is fostering the much-needed public understanding of how every effort really matters when an able helping hand is provided to the badly injured in traffic accidents while keeping the idea that "Every life is valuable" in mind.

The police have developed a novel programme to honour and recognise "Good Samaritans" who rushed to the scene of a road accident during the "Golden Hour" — the first hour following the trauma — and rendered heroic aid to the victims.

"The objective behind launching the singular scheme is to encourage ordinary citizens to become life-savers and reduce loss of lives by prompt action delivered during the vital 'Golden Hour' of the road accident", said Dipanshu Kabra, Transport Commissioner.

Road accidents across the country are among the major causes of serious injuries leading to deaths.

The transport department has come out with the scheme with an intended objective to encourage the people for timely help during the emergency situation of road accidents to help the victims and keep his mental status normal.

The 'Good Samaritan' will be rewarded with Rs 5000 per incident when they helped the accident victim in the first hour, cited as 'Golden Hour' after the trauma and saved the life.

"We have sent a proposal to the government to raise the reward money from ₹5,000 to ₹10,000", Kabra told this newspaper.

Furore over Assam CM, Sadguru's Kaziranga safari

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

ASSAM Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma and spiritual leader Sadhguru Jaggi Vasudev courted a controversy by undertaking a jeep safari inside the Kaziranga National Park and Tiger Reserve after sunset on Saturday.

Two activists – Soneswar Narah and Pradeep Pegu – lodged a police complaint against the duo as well as Assam Tourism Minister Jayanta Malla Baruah demanding action against them.

Evening safari after sunset in Kaziranga! Is this not a violation of Section 27 of the Wildlife (Protection) Act, 1972?
Rohit Choudhury, Activist

"We demand that they are arrested for violating Wildlife Protection Act, 1972 or legal measures should be taken against them so that they tender a public apology. Else, such illegal relaxation of the traditional security policy will pose a threat to Kaziranga in the future," the activists wrote in their complaint to the police.

The safari also left a section of activists and environmentalists of the state livid.

"Evening safari after sunset in Kaziranga! Is this not a violation of Section 27 of the Wildlife (Protection) Act, 1972?" asked activist Rohit Choudhury in a tweet.

Environmentalist Apurba Ballave Goswami said, "It's really unfortunate. The government takes so many steps for the protection of the animals. The nocturnal safari on Saturday definitely scared the wild animals."

The safari followed the unveiling of a memorial, which was made out of the ash of burnt rhino horns, by Sarma in the presence of Sadhguru.

Something has shifted this time, says Jaishankar on UN reforms

NEW YORK

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar said there has been a 'shift' on the issue of UN reforms among the international community.

"In respect of UN reform, every General Assembly (session) you revisit that issue, but this time something has shifted. You can see that, you can sense that," Jaishankar told reporters as he wrapped up the New York leg of his visit to the US with his address to the UNGA high-level session.

Jaishankar said it is not that only he has sensed a shift on the issue of UN reforms. "I think everybody sensed a shift and it's something which others actually brought up with me".

He noted that this was articulated by US President Joe Biden, who had said in his address to the General Debate earlier this week that the US supports increasing the number of both permanent and non-permanent representatives of the Council, including permanent seats for those nations Washington has long supported and permanent seats for countries in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean.

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar

Jaishankar added that Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov 'explicitly' mentioned India from the General Assembly podium, a number of countries also referred to India in their statements. In his address to the General Assembly just an hour before Jaishankar's speech, Lavrov said that the UN and Security Council have to be aligned to contemporary realties.

He said Moscow sees the prospect of making the Security Council more democratic, exclusively, through broadening the representation of countries from Africa, Asia and Latin America. "We note India and Brazil in particular as key international actors and worthy candidates for permanent membership within the Council whilst at the same time unilaterally and mandatorily raising the profile of Africa," Lavrov said. PTI

Iran vows no leniency, summons UK envoy

PARIS

IRAN'S judiciary chief vowed no leniency on Sunday against the wave of unrest that has rocked the country since the death of young Kurdish woman Mahsa Amini in the custody of the morality police.

The warning by the head of the Judiciary, Gholamhossein Mohseni Ejei, came after nine nights of protests and street clashes and echoed earlier comments by ultra-conservative President Ebrahim Raisi.

At least 41 people have died so far, mostly protesters but including members of the Islamic republic's security forces, according to an official toll, although human rights groups say the real figure is higher.

The judiciary chief "emphasised the need for decisive action without leniency" against the core instigators of the 'riots', the judiciary's Mizan Online website said.

Iranian Academy Award-winning filmmaker Asghar Farhadi was the latest to support for Iran's "progressive and courageous women leading protests for their human rights alongside men".

The foreign ministry said Sunday it had summoned Britain's ambassador over what it described as an "invitation to riots" by Farsi-speaking media based in London, and Norway's envoy over "unconstructive comments" made by the parliament speaker. Norway's ambassador was also ordered to appear at the ministry, to answer questions about "interfering and unconstructive comments about the internal affairs of Iran" made by the parliament speaker in Oslo in the wake of demonstrations, the ministry said in a statement.

Iran has also organised large rallies in defence of the hijab and conservative values and another pro-government rally was set to be held. AFP

Amid Kremlin mobilisation, many EU nations deny Russians asylum

Stir across the country; police fire warning shots to disperse over 100 people

KYIV

RUSSIA'S rush to mobilise hundreds of thousands of recruits to staunch stinging losses in Ukraine is a tacit acknowledgement that its "army is not able to fight," Ukraine's president said on Sunday, as splits sharpened in Europe over whether to welcome or turn away Russians fleeing the call-up.

He portrayed the Russian mobilisation—its first such call-up since World War II—as a signal of weakness, not strength, saying: "They admitted that their army is not able to fight with Ukraine anymore."

The partial mobilisation is also triggering protests in Russia, with new anti-war demonstrations on Sunday.

In Dagestan, one of Russia's poorer regions in the North Caucasus, police fired warning shots to try to disperse more than 100 people who blocked a highway while protesting the call-up, Russian media reported. Unconfirmed Russian media reports that the Kremlin might soon close Russian borders to men of fighting age are fuelling panic and prompting more to flee.

The partial mobilisation has triggered an exodus of men seeking to avoid the draft and sharp differences of opinion in Europe in recent days about how to deal with them.

Lithuania, a EU member-country, said it won't grant them asylum. "Russians should stay and fight. Against Putin," Foreign Minister Gabrielius Landsbergis tweeted.

His counterpart in Latvia, also an EU member and bordering Russia, said the exodus poses "considerable security risks" for the 27-nation bloc and that those fleeing can't be considered conscientious objectors against the invasion.

Finland also said it intends to "significantly restrict" entry to Russians entering the EU through its border with Russia. A Finnish opposition leader, Petteri Orpo, also said fleeing Russian military reservists are an "obvious" security risk and "we must put our national security first."

Also, long lines of vehicles were seen at a border crossing between Mongolia and Russia on Sunday as people fled the Kremlin's call-up of hundreds of thousands of reservists for the war in Ukraine. Agencies

WAS TREATED WORSE THAN A DOG: FREED BRIT

LONDON: A British man freed from captivity in east Ukraine in a prisoner swap told Sunday how his captors stabbed him in the back and forced him to sing the Russian national anthem. Aiden Aslin, who was freed and flown to Riyadh with four other Britons held by Russian proxies, told The Sun in his first interview back in the UK that interrogators tortured him, promising him a "beautiful death". Aslin, 28, from Nottinghamshire in central England, was living in Ukraine and serving in its Marines. Aslin told The Sun he was repeatedly beaten with a truncheon during interrogation. Aslin said he was "treated worse than a dog". AFP

More audio clips of leaders in Pak govt out

Islamabad: More purported audio clips featuring leaders of Pakistan's government surfaced on Sunday, raising questions about the security of high-profile places and the meetings held there. Apparently, one of the clips involved a conversation among several senior leaders of the ruling Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz in the PM House. Interior minister Rana Sanullah, defence minister Khawaja Asif, law minister Azam Tarar and minister for economic affairs Ayaz Sadiq can be heard talking about the fate of Finance Minister Miftah Ismail.

Far right eyes historic victory as Italy votes, can get first female PM

ROME

ITALIANS voted on Sunday on whether to usher in the country's first government led by the far right since World War II, bringing eurosceptic populists to the heart of Europe. The Brothers of Italy party, headed by one-time Mussolini supporter Giorgia Meloni, has led opinion polls and looks set to take office in a coalition with the far-right League and Silvio Berlusconi's Forza Italia parties. Meloni, 45, who campaigned on a motto of "God, country and family", hopes to become Italy's first female prime minister. "Today you can participate in writing history," she tweeted.

Turnout was around 19%, as per the interior ministry, in line with the 2018 elections. "I'm playing to win, not just to take part," Matteo Salvini, head of the far-right League, told reporters as he went to cast his ballot.

"I can't wait to come back from tomorrow as part of the government of this extraordinary country," he added.

Many voters are expected to pick Meloni, "the novelty, the only leader the Italians have not yet tried", Wolfango Piccoli of the Teneo consultancy told AFP.

Brussels and the markets are watching closely, amid concern that Italy—a founding member of the EU—may be the latest country to veer hard right, less than two weeks after the far right outperformed in elections in Sweden.

If she wins, Meloni will face challenges from rampant inflation to an energy crisis as winter approaches, linked to the conflict in Ukraine. AFP

National Pension System: Should you invest in Tier II account?

Tier I account is for retirement planning, where your investment is locked in until 60 years. Tier II account, on the other hand, is a voluntary savings account

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

THE National Pension System (NPS) plays a significant role in investors' retirement planning. Investors can open a pension account under NPS right from 18 years to 70 years. Last week, we wrote about NPS as an investment option, and this week, we will explain to you about two types of NPS accounts - Tier I and II accounts. We would also try to explain which is a better option to build your retirement corpus – NPS or Mutual Funds.

Tier I and Tier II accounts

If you open the Tier I account, you get a Permanent Retirement Account Number (PRAN), and your investment is locked-in until you reach 60 years. You can open the account with ₹500 and minimum subsequent contribution is ₹1,000. In case if you wish to withdraw, 60% of the corpus on retirement can be withdrawn.

While Tier I is for retirement planning, Tier II account is a voluntary savings account.

Investors should allocate to Tier II accounts in a structured and methodical manner so that optimum value may be derived from NPS, says Nilanjan Dey, Director, Wishlist Capital.

"Tier II is a safe and transparent structure that can potentially deliver robust performance, subject to risks. Investors can gain from its inherent advantages -- government support, long-term potential, regulatory compliance. Purely from a practical point of view, Tier II can take ordinary investors closer to their retirement goals," he adds.

He advises investors, especially the retirement-minded ones, to systematically invest in Tier II and complete the process they initiated with Tier I. According to him, Tier I and Tier II will supplement one another.

If investors wish to open an NPS Tier II account, they must be a Tier I member and this account does not have a lock-in period and you can withdraw funds at any time.

Like in Tier I, the Tier II account also offers multiple investment portfolios – Scheme E (up to 50% exposure to Equity), Scheme G (up to 100% investment in G-secs) and Scheme C (up to 100% investment in corporate bonds). Now, you can also opt for Tier II Tax Saver account that comes with a three-year lock-in period.

No lock-in period

If investors wish to open an NPS Tier II account, they must be a Tier I member and this account does not have a lock-in period and you can withdraw funds at any time. Investors should allocate to Tier II accounts in a structured and methodical manner so that optimum value may be derived from NPS. Tier I and II will supplement one another.

"We need to remember that NPS as a product has been made specifically for retirement. So even though NPS Tier II is not necessary for retirement savings, you can still use it for debt allocation of other long-term goals. If you look at the long-term returns of schemes G and C, it does seem like a good alternative to debt funds (though returns in the last 1-2 years have moderated substantially)," says Dev Ashish, founder, Stable Investor.

Though many investors treat Tier II as an alternative to a savings account and bank FDs, that assumption is full of risks which may not seem obvious at first, says Ashish.

Tier II G & C schemes and NPS as a product are managed as a long-term instrument. "The money invested in schemes G and C of Tier II also goes into medium-long-term government and corporate bonds. There is obvious interest rate risk even if credit risk is limited. For someone looking to park the money in Tier II for the short-term, it means they are knowingly or unknowingly taking interest rate risk. This should be kept in mind and make sure you check the maturity and tenure profiles of the underlying bonds in portfolios of schemes G & C," the financial advisor says.

If you have a short-term goal that you want to save money for then you already have simple FDs and a range of shorter tenured debt fund categories that are better suited. Investors can go for those depending on the nature and criticality of your goal and your personal risk appetite.

NPS vs Mutual funds

"As for the long-term goals, where you should ideally have a higher allocation to equity, NPS Tier II doesn't make much of a case as here too, you have better and more options available in the equity mutual funds. Depending on your risk appetite, you can vary your investments within equity but between market caps, segments, sectors and strategies. Something that is not possible with scheme E of NPS," Ashish explains.

There is no right or wrong product when it comes to NPS and Mutual funds, says Nitin Rao, Head of Products and Proposition, at Epsilon Money Mart. "Investors should pick an investment option based on their risk profile and investment objective. If an investor is looking for capital appreciation, then equity is the right fit. NPS is ideal for investors if he or she is looking to build a retirement corpus through asset allocation process," he adds.

Nilanjan Dey believes that NPS may well score over other forms of investments (including MFs).

"If investors are here for the longer haul, they might well be in Tier II, and not in MF alone," he adds. Dey is referring to equity - an asset class that may be leveraged to secure superior long-term gains.

MONEY-WISE

HERE IS WHERE YOU COULD PARK MONEY

I was having a conversation with a friend who had got some money recently, and wanted to invest that. He was worried about inflation, and did not want to invest into his dental practice. So here was a dentist with good knowledge about equities and he wanted to invest. I have had this discussion with him in the past, and he is a friend. I am his patient, but he is not my client for anything!

He was getting hurt by the interest rates – he was not happy with the Liquid Fund's returns. About a year ago, he had moved to Floating Rate Fund, and was happy with that move. However, he was sure that the interest rates will continue to keep going up. So he wanted to shift to a Gilt fund on a Systematic Transfer plan (STP) basis. Remember he had enough equity, so investing in Gilt with a 5% allocation was fine by him.

He said 'Equities are overvalued' – he was taking a global view of equities, and I do think he is (was) right. Yes of course, equity is over-valued. However, if you have a big amount – say 20% of your liquid net-worth, you should do a STP or do it as a SIP over an 18-month period.

Let us say your Liquid net-worth is ₹30 L and you have ₹6 L to invest, do a STP. However, if you have ₹1 L, you should put it in an index fund directly.

He wanted to invest in Real Estate. I said with increasing interest rates, people may not want to commit to a long-term loan, so selling RE will be tough. He said 'yields could improve'. I said I have not seen yields improve – the numerator (rent) is moving much slower than the denominator (RE prices). This makes RE not very attractive – except for people investing their 'cash'.

So if a person cannot invest in equity markets (overpriced), or debt (yields could improve further), or Real Estate where could a person invest! Good question.

I said 'pick a fund which is value-based'.

A Value fund has a job to look for good shares – which are reasonably priced, showing some growth, having cash – and paying decent dividends. It is not easy to pick up such shares. I told him this is exactly what I do for myself.

The other option is to do a SIP in a value-fund or you could do a one-time investment in a Balanced Advantage Fund.

I did not suggest any equity share simply because this person is very busy. He has a big clinic with 3 chairs to run. He has some knowledge of equity markets – but I did not want to push him towards that. Why did not say Xyz ultra-short fund or Xyz Balanced Advantage fund? Well, I have not registered as a RIA!

These are real tough times, but I still have enough faith in the equities market, but I do tactically shift to debt. I have invested in the past year in a Floating Rate fund...and a couple of pension plans.

MIGRATION

Higher taxes, poor infra make rich Indians migrate

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

WHY are rich and wealthy leaving India? This is a question that has been baffling many. Nikhil Kamath, co-founder of portfolio management services company TrueBeacon, feels apart from high taxation in India, wealthy and rich are also leaving India for countries with better infrastructure and security.

"If you look at where the Indian people are immigrating to – they are going to Dubai and Singapore, which have significantly lower taxation. Apart from that, usual reasons like better infrastructure and security are making people want to immigrate to some of these countries," Kamath told TNIE.

Several reports have claimed that between 5,000-8,000 rich Indians are leaving India for other countries. A recent Global Wealth Migration Review report claimed that 5,000 rich Indians left the country in 2020 alone. According to Henley and Partners, 8,000 wealthy Indians would likely migrate to other countries in 2022. In one of its reports, it said most of the wealthy from emerging markets are migrating to UAE, Australia and Singapore.

Kamath said though it is difficult to pinpoint the exact reasons, taxation, better infrastructure, safety and security could be the reason why rich Indians are migrating from the country. Kamath, however, says India as an investment destination remains very attractive for foreign investors. He says that the government has been successful in selling the India story outside as foreign investors seem to be more optimistic about India growth story than the Indian investors.

RAJAS KELKAR

HOW MUCH IS ENOUGH FOR RETIREMENT

IT is a topic that rarely has any last word in a debate. If you are in your 40s and 50s and regularly meet your peers, you would know the endless conversations over that cup of coffee or the dinner table on retirement. How much is enough for retirement? That is a question not only for those closer to their retirement but also for the young.

As persistently high inflation hurts everyone, the size of the retirement corpus also grows. From a couple of crore rupees not long ago, conversations are now around ₹5 to ₹6 crore. If we have a sustained period of inflation, that could grow even further.

The conversations we talk about in India occur among the wealthy and upper middle-class communities. Those in the lower income group and the poor are not even considering retirement. Such ideas do not come naturally when young and rarely occur when poor. As average incomes rise, the importance of the topic will only go up.

A new study on India's stock market returns is likely to add to the intensity of the retirement debate. It was assumed for a long that you could withdraw 4% of your retirement corpus every year without affecting returns on your corpus. It was considered the safe withdrawal rate or SWF.

Ravi Saraogi, a Sebi registered investment advisor, has recently published a paper challenging that argument. He says that an average Indian investor's SWR of 3% is suitable, and for a risk-conservative investor, it should be no more than 2.6%. The argument is based on empirical evidence of diminishing long-term equity returns.

That is all set to open a pandora's box. On the one hand, everybody is worried about income prospects. On the other hand, you have to save much more than you thought you needed for possible retirement. That presents a considerable challenge for someone looking to retire early or over the next decade. Assuming 3% as the SWF, for every ₹1 crore you save, you will be able to draw only ₹3,00,000 annually.

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

All of that leaves you with no option but to work harder and earn that bonus or pay. You may want to consider upskilling and learn something new that pays better than things you do presently. There is no excuse for throwing away your inheritance. It has to be put to productive use through appropriate asset allocation.

If you invest ₹1,000 per month in a diversified equity fund, you can save over ₹1 crore in 25 years. You must multiply that amount every month to push up your retirement corpus. Being young is an advantage. You know your retirement targets, and you have an opportunity to work towards them.

In addition to systematic investment plans, you may want to make some allocation to direct investing in equity assets.

Stockbrokers offer systematic equity plans now. That means you can accumulate shares of your favourite companies monthly just like you accumulate mutual funds.

The money should be put into companies with solid fundamentals that pay yearly dividends. Try to reinvest the dividend into diversified equity funds or buy more shares of the same company. For example, if you receive a dividend of ₹100 per share yearly from Reliance Industries or Hindustan Unilever, you can invest that amount into buying the same company's shares. That way, you can benefit from the power of compounding.

Warren Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway owns Apple shares worth $159 bn. They receive over $775 mn in dividends. Berkshire deploys most of that dividend back into buying new Apple stock. At the same time, Apple buys back shares worth $89 bn every year. The value of Berkshire's Apple holding goes up without putting a single extra dollar.

As you accumulate more shares of your favourite companies, you can emulate Berkshire Hathaway on a smaller scale. That would go a long way in boosting the value of your investments needed for long-term financial goals like retirement. Getting rich 'slow' is not such a bad thing at all.

After Friday mayhem, all eyes now on RBI's MPC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AFTER Friday's massive sell-off that wiped out investors wealth by ₹6 lakh crore in a single session , all eyes are now on the RBI Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meet to provide some cushion to the local market.

Sensex closed Friday session at 58,098, down 1,020.80 points while NSE Nifty shed 1.72% to end at 17,327 after few major central banks worldwide, including the Bank of England and the US Federal Reserve, raised key lending rates to tame inflation amidst fear of a looming recession.

After last week's fall, the two benchmark indexes have turned negative for the year to date in 2022 and India's local currency, the INR, has nosedived in recent sessions. There are now consensus among trade analysts and experts that RBI will go for a 50bps rate hike.

While this might help the RBI to support the Rupee against the US Dollar and bring down inflation rate at 'tolerable' level, a 50bps rate hike may not be a very good news for the economy and the equity market.

"For the week ahead, investors will keenly watch the outcome of the RBI monetary policy on September 30. There is a consensus that a 50bps rate hike will help strengthen INR," said Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial services. He added, "Benign oil prices and strong local demand may help the RBI to maintain the balance between growth and inflation. We expect the market direction will be led by global developments and FIIs' action. On the valuation front, India is the most expensive stock market in the world today. Therefore, investors are advised to wait and watch until the dust settles."

The 6-member MPC is scheduled to meet during September 28-30.

Online gaming firm Gameskraft served ₹21,000 cr GST notice

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

IN what could be one of the biggest indirect tax claims, the GST Intelligence Wing has served a show cause notice (SCN) of ₹21,000 crore on Bengaluru-based online gaming company Gameskraft Technology. According to the GST department, the company has been served the notice for allegedly indulging in betting and gambling, and accordingly the company is liable to pay a GST of 28% on the 'face value' of collections made.

The ₹21,000-crore notice to Gameskraft has been served despite the fact that the GST Council, the authority that takes all GST related decisions, is yet to take a final call on whether online games are game of skills or chance.

Sources in the gaming industry told TNIE that an intimation notice was served earlier to Gameskraft in this regard, and the same has been stayed by the Karnataka High Court on 23 September. Meanwhile, a Gameskraft spokesperson has termed the notice a departure from the well-established law of the land. "Games of skill are a constitutionally protected activity as per the Supreme Court and various High Courts across the country," the spokesperson said. The statement said: "We are confident that we will be able to respond to this notice to the full satisfaction of the authorities since they have sought to apply 28% tax applicable to games of chance and lottery, instead of the 18% applicable to online platforms of games of skill." The online gaming industry has strongly argued that online games are games of skills and they should not be treated as gambling or betting. GST on betting and gambling is levied at 28%. The online gaming industry has pleaded that since online games are skill-based games, GST rate applicable should be 18%. Tax experts say the action on Gameskraft is a big blow to the gaming industry as this would lead to many more tax demands. "Such high tax demands will also empower officers to initiate other proceedings related to attachment of property and prosecution. This would have an implication for entire industry, whereby we could see Pan-India ripple effect on 100s of online gaming companies," says Rajat Mohan, partner in Chartered accountancy firm AMRG & Associates.

Anita Rstogi, principal, Price Waterhouse & Co, says the other aspect (in the Gamescraft case) which merits consideration is on the valuation, that is, GST to be levied on face value or net value. The industry has also been making representation against the GST being levied on the total pool and not on gross gaming revenue (GGR).

Kipchoge betters own WR at Berlin Marathon

Two-time Olympic champion Eliud Kipchoge bettered his own world record in the Berlin Marathon on Sunday. The Kenyan star clocked 2 hours, 1 minute, 9 seconds to shave 30 seconds off his previous best mark of 2:01:39 set on the same course in 2018. Ethiopia's Tigist Assefa unexpectedly won the women's race in a course record of 2:15:37 — 18 minutes faster than she had ever run before. It was the third fastest time ever.

VIRAT AND SURYA BURN BRIGHT

India No 3 & No 4 score half-centuries to help team win 3rd T20I and series vs Aus; Spinner Axar shines with ball

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

Virat Kohli (L) and Suryakumar Yadav hit a half-century each to help India chase 187 against Australia on Sunday | AFP

BHUVNESHWAR Kumar continues to struggle while bowling in the end overs. Harshal Patel still doesn't induce the confidence of being accurate at the death. Jasprit Bumrah isn't at his absolute best yet. Fielding and dropped catches continue to cost India valuable runs. KL Rahul continues to blow hot and cold at the top. Yet, in Axar Patel, Yuzvendra Chahal, Virat Kohli and Suryakumar Yadav, Hardik Pandya India had reasons to smile as they clinched the T20I series against Australia in a thrilling fashion in Hyderabad Sunday.

Any series that precede a big-ticket event like the T20 World Cup can often be a double-edged sword. Especially for a team like India, who look from far from being a settled unit, to be considered a genuine favourite when the tournament begins on October 16. The series against Australia and the three games to follow against South Africa is all that Rohit Sharma & Co had to fix their holes and sail smoothly across the Indian Ocean Down Under. So in terms of providing much-needed confidence after the Asia Cup debacle, this series win would allow India a lot more breathing space.

Winning the toss, Rohit didn't hesitate to bowl first. India are at home when batting second is needless to say. And after putting themselves in challenging positions by batting first in the past, Rohit didn't think twice before deciding. With a target in sight, India's batting unit tends to be in autopilot mode and that is what unfolded on the night, with Kohli anchoring the chase with 48-ball 63.

If Kohli was in his elements, Suryakumar was once again showing how he has become the point-man of India's evolving batting style. And nothing emphasized it more than the two sixes he hit off leg-spinner Adam Zampa. Using his rubber wrists, he first sent the ball sailing over cow-corner with a flick. Then off the next ball, he created room on the off-side, and lofted Zampa wide of the long-off fielder. It was the 104-run partnership off 62 deliveries between Kohli and Suryakumar that got India back on the track in their chase of 187, after they lost both their openers inside the powerplay with only 30 on board.

With a platform intact, Pandya played his role to perfection scoring 25 off 16 to give India the series win.

And irrespective of the outcome, there are few concerns — bowling at the end overs and fielding — refuse to go away. Perhaps it is ideal that these holes are popping up now than later and India still have the time to make changes should they deem fit. Bhuvneshwar's end-over struggles continued on the night, with his fourth over, which was delivered during the 18th over of Australia's innings costing 21 runs. On the other hand, Harshal made an admirable comeback in the 20th over, where after conceding a six off the first ball, gave only 1 run off the next five balls. That India didn't use the duo's full quota showed the luxury of having six bowling options.

Brief scores: Australia 186/7 in 20 ovs (David 54, Green 52, Axar 3/33) lost to India 187/4 in 19.5 ovs (Suryakumar 69, Kohli 63).

West end up the best in Duleep Trophy

GOMESH S @Coimbatore

WHEN West Zone were reduced to 167/8 on Day 1 of the Duleep Trophy final against South Zone, it seemed like the match was going in just one direction. Even as they recovered to 267, it did not seem enough. After all, South Zone did take the lead on Day two. But over the last 48 hours, West Zone came together as a team to put up an inspiring performance, claiming their first Duleep Trophy title since 2009-10 with an emphatic 294-run victory on Sunday at the Sri Ramakrishna College ground, Coimbatore. Coincidentally, that was the last time Ajinkya Rahane, who led West Zone to glory here, took part in the tournament. Which is why, for him, this title meant a lot. He said as much after winning the trophy.

How did he and West Zone script a perfect comeback after their struggles on Day one? It was a mix of the exuberance of youth and wily wisdom of the experienced campaigners. First, Jaydev Unadkat brought all his skills and smartness to the fore. The Saurashtra captain troubled the top-order with the new Kookaburra ball. And once it became soft, he created angles to take the ball away. He also brought the ball back in, depending on the batter and the way the pitch was operating. Unadkat finished with 13 wickets and 50 runs and was named the player of the tournament.

West Zone captain Ajinkya Rahane receives Duleep Trophy in Coimbatore on Sunday | S SENBAGAPANDIYAN

With the bat, it was the youth that came to the rescue. If it was Het Patel in the first innings, Yashasvi Jaiswal and Sarfaraz Khan took the game away from South on Day Three and Four. They fed on an inexperienced pace attack and took the attack to their key bowler in Sai Kishore, who had an odd forgettable outing.

Perhaps, the biggest factor in their comeback was their captain Rahane. Through the course of the tournament, everyone had nothing but praise for the leadership of the 34-year-old. On-field tactics — that were spot on — apart, he marshalled his troops, held the team together, allowed them to express themselves but at the same time, knew when to put his foot down. In fact, on Sunday, Jaiswal was repeatedly sledging South's Ravi Teja to an extent where the umpires had to intervene. Rahane took things on his own hands and asked the 20-year-old to leave the field. "Certain things you have to follow on the field. There are authorities and umpires, they have the power. They control the game, you should give respect to them. The opposition is also here to play. So, you should respect them and play the game in a dignified manner," he said.

But when any of the younger players reached out to him for suggestions or a chat, Rahane was always there. The 20-year-old southpaw credited his double-century to his skipper and the guidance he gave. Rahane, however, feels it's a two-way street. "Whenever you see something or people ask you something, you always try and help. I think I also learn a lot from them. That learning process always has to be there," said the skipper. There is a lot to take away for West Zone as a team and as individuals. From those in the mid-20s like Patel, Sarfaraz, and Jaiswal, to those in their 30s (Unadkat and Rahane), they all have their own goals as the full-fledged domestic season is just getting underway. But for now, they will take heart from the fact that they all came together for their team and performed collectively to help West Zone their first title since 2009.

BRIEF SCORES: West Zone 270 & 585/4d bt South Zone 327 & 234 in 71.2 ovs (Rohan 93, Teja 53, Mulani 4/51).

Kuldeep, Shaw help India A seal series

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

Kuldeep Yadav being congratulated by his teammates | ASHWIN PRASATH

BRIEF SCORES: New Zealand A 219 all out in 47 ovs (Rachin Ravindra 61, Joe Carter 72; Kuldeep Yadav 4/51) lost to India A 222/6 in 34 ovs (Prithvi Shaw 77, Sanju Samson 37, Logan van Beek 3/46).

LEFT-ARM wrist spinner Kuldeep Yadav's four-wicket haul which included a hat-trick (4/51) and Prithvi Shaw's breezy 77 (48b; 11x4, 3x6) paved the way for India A to beat New Zealand A by four wickets in the second unofficial ODI and seal the three-match series here at the MA Chidambaram Stadium on Sunday.

The wicket for the second game was different from the one played earlier on Thursday. It was much flatter and had good bounce. Kuldeep took a while to get his rhythm. He bowled four spells with the second one being the most expensive as he gave away 20 runs in three overs. He claimed four wickets in his final spell of two overs, which also meant the Kiwis, who at one stage were 210/6, got bowled out for 219.

Speaking after the match, Kuldeep said injury and subsequent surgery were the reasons for him not being part of the senior side. "I mean, to be very honest, last year I got injured but coming back from there and understanding my rhythm is very important you know. Before I was a bit slow to my run up and I found it very difficult when the batsman used to pick out how I am bowling, but after surgery, I changed that rhythm and bowling. Now I am bowling with more effort and control and giving that extra pace as well. So that really helped me from what I used to be before and what I am now," he said.

After dismissing Sean Solia to bag his first wicket of the day, Kuldeep picked up the wickets of Logan van Beek, Joe Walker and Jacob Duffy to complete a memorable hat-trick. He also believes that he has started to bowl as he used to when he was at his peak. He also says he is bowling in the right areas.

"A hat-trick at any level is special. Definitely fine (bowling), I mean I have been bowling really well right from IPL, and then I got hit in the nets so I was out for like two months. After that, I played in West Indies where the ball was coming out really well and against Zimbabwe also, you know, the control which I got there and the accuracy and the speed was phenomenal. So coming back and playing red ball against New Zealand A and the ODI games the control was beautiful. The speed was perfect on Sunday as well so I'm very happy with it."

Chasing a modest 220 for a win, Prithvi Shaw and Ruturaj Gaikwad got India A to a flying start. Shaw was at his aggressive best as he reached his 50 off just 26 balls. India, however, lost a few quick wickets once Gaikwad departed but Rishi Dhawan (22 not out, 43b, 1x4) and Shardul Thakur (25 n.o, 24b, 3x4, 1x6) played sensibly and steered the team to victory with 16 overs to spare.

Tiafoe overcomes Tsitsipas, Team World win Laver Cup

AFP @ London

Frances Tiafoe (R) of Team World with Roger Federer (L) after his victory over Stefanos Tsitsipas on Sunday | AFP

FRANCES Tiafoe led Team World to their first Laver Cup title as the American saved four match points in a dramatic victory over Stefanos Tsitsipas that denied Roger Federer a farewell trophy on Sunday.

Tiafoe staged a superb fightback to win 1-6,7-6 (11), 10/8 in the penultimate match of the tournament at London's O2 Arena.

That was enough to give John McEnroe's Team World a 13-8 overall margin of victory with a match to spare, sealing their maiden triumph in the competition after Team Europe won the first four editions.

While Federer had hoped to mark the end of his career by lifting the trophy in a tournament he helped create, the Swiss legend was left to congratulate Tiafoe and the rest of the Team World squad.

Federer had played the last match of his glittering career on Friday when he and Rafael Nadal were beaten by Tiafoe and Jack Sock in the doubles.

India's Deepti Sharma after running out England's Charlie Dean on Saturday | AP

THERE were 15,187 at the Lord's watching the third ODI on Sunday. England needed 17 runs to win with one wicket in hand. As she saw Charlie Dean leaving the crease early, Deepti Sharma stopped her action midway, took off the bails, and appealed. There was as much celebration as there was booing from the home crowd as she shrugged off and looked at her captain.

Harmanpreet Kaur went on with the appeal, and 21-year-old Dean was given out on the big screen. While the host broadcasters went on to discuss the dismissal at length, India celebrated their 3-0 win, carrying Jhulan Goswami on their shoulders. After all, the entire series was a celebration of Jhulan for them. When asked about the dismissal, Harmanpreet said that Deepti did everything by the ICC rules and that she will back her players.

First things first, there is no question about the legitimacy of the dismissal. It is a run out as per the ICC and MCC laws. That said, with not many English cricketers being a fan of the dismissal, social media went haywire arguing about the 'spirit of cricket'. If one were to make an argument, it has to be about the ambiguous nature of the law. It states that if a batter is out of the crease when the bowler is expected to release the ball, they are liable to be run out. The expected release of the ball is something that is always up to the interpretation of the umpires. In Deepti's case, the umpires decided that it was out. And, that is all that matters on the field.

It is no surprise that Deepti was the one to effect such a dismissal, knowing the kind of debate it could cause. For she often goes through her action without bowling the delivery, trying to understand what the batter is anticipating. There have been occasions where she saw the non-striker backing up and stopped bowling. On Sunday, she did not hesitate to take off the bails.

In fact, it is not just her. Since the ICC amended the rules to make it a run out from unfair play in March 2022, it's becoming a conscious tactical ploy from several teams. During the senior women's T20 in April, some of the state sides had done the research to prepare the list of batters who generally leave the crease early. And did not shy away from attempting it. In fact, India vice-captain Smriti Mandhana was run out in that fashion against Rajasthan. Which is why, one should not be taken by surprise should we see more such runs outs in domestic and international cricket.

Swiss find holes in Spain defence in Nations League upset

AFP @ Zaragoza (Spain)

Switzerland's defender Manuel Akanji scores a header against Spain | AP

SWITZERLAND earned a 2-1 win over Spain in the Nations League on Saturday in Zaragoza to drag Luis Enrique's side off top spot in the group.

Portugal thrashed the Czech Republic 4-0 in the other League A Group 2 clash to move two points clear of Spain, whom they host on Tuesday in the final group match.

It was Spain's first defeat in the group in five games, and one which exposed their defensive frailty from set-pieces.

Manuel Akanji and Breel Embolo both scored from Switzerland corners, either side of Jordi Alba's strike. "In two set-piece situations, which will be important at the World Cup, their goals arrived," said Villarreal defender Pau Torres.

"We have to improve on that." Spain never looked comfortable in the game, a far cry from the team which reached the Euro 2020 semi-finals and were defeated on penalties by Italy. As a result, they stumbled to their first loss on home soil since 2018, after 22 matches unbeaten.

Luis Enrique selected six Barcelona players in his starting line-up, including the regular midfield trio Xavi Hernandez utilises at Camp Nou, in Pedri, Gavi and Sergio Busquets. Ferran Torres was another of the Barca clan, part of a three-pronged attack alongside Real Madrid's Marco Asensio and Paris Saint-Germain's Pablo Sarabia. None of the three have enjoyed regular football with their clubs this season but were given Luis Enrique's trust. They did not repay it in the first half, with Spain anaemic in attack and asleep at the back when it mattered most.

"We were sluggish, no, worse than sluggish," said Luis Enrique. "We had the most imprecise first half of my reign as coach. "(However) this defeat does not condition anything ahead of the World Cup, at all. It's always good to arrive in form to a World Cup, but I have total faith in the team."

Switzerland took the lead when Manchester City summer signing Akanji got the better of Cesar Azpilicueta in the air at a corner and nodded past Unai Simon in the 21st minute. Spain struggled to create at the other end and Switzerland almost doubled their lead when veteran midfielder Xherdan Shaqiri cut through the defence and forced Simon into a smart save shortly before the interval. The crowd grumbled, unimpressed at a drenched La Romareda stadium, in a city where Spain had not played since 2003.

Tonga volcano blast was unusual, could even warm the Earth

When an undersea volcano erupted in Tonga in January, its watery blast was huge and unusual—and scientists are still trying to understand its impacts

FIGURING OUT THE REPERCUSSIONS
Now, scientists are trying to figure out how all that water could affect the atmosphere, and whether it might warm Earth's surface over the next few years

SHOOTING TONS OF WATER VAPOR
The volcano, known as Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai, shot millions of tons of water vapor high up into the atmosphere, according to in the journal Science

INCREASED AMOUNT OF WATER IN STRATOSPHERE
The researchers estimate the eruption raised the amount of water in the stratosphere — the second layer of the atmosphere, above the range where humans live and breathe —

by around 5%

This satellite image made by the Japanese weather satellite Himawari-8 shows the eruption of the Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai undersea volcano in the Pacific nation of Tonga on Saturday, Jan. 15, 2022

ONCE-IN-A-LIFETIME EVENT
"This was a once-in-a-lifetime event," said lead author Holger Voemel, a scientist at the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Colorado

Big eruptions usually cool the planet. Most volcanoes send up large amounts of sulfur, which blocks the sun's rays, explained Matthew Toohey, a climate researcher at the University of Saskatchewan who was not involved in the study

A SOGGIER BLAST
The Tongan blast was much soggier: The eruption started under the ocean, so it shot up a plume with much more water than usual. And since water vapor acts as a heat-trapping greenhouse gas, the eruption will probably raise temperatures instead of lowering them, Toohey said

It's unclear just how much warming could be in store

Minimal effects

Karen Rosenlof, a climate scientist at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration who was not involved with the study, said she expects the effects to be minimal and temporary

This amount of increase might warm the surface a small amount for a short amount of time —Rosenlof

12 to 50 km above

A DRY PLACE
The stratosphere stretches from around 12 km to 50 km above Earth and is usually very dry, Voemel explained

Voemel's team estimated the volcano's plume using a network of instruments suspended from weather balloons. Usually, these tools can't even measure water levels in the stratosphere because the amounts are so low, Voemel said

POSTULATING ANOTHER THEORY

Another research group monitored the blast using an instrument on a NASA satellite. In their study, published earlier this summer, they estimated the eruption to be even bigger, adding around 150 million metric tons of water vapor to the stratosphere — three times as much as Voemel's study found

The Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai volcano erupts near Tonga in the South Pacific Ocean on Jan. 14, 2015 | AP

MIGHT SPEED UP OZONE LOSS
The water vapor will stick around the upper atmosphere for a few years before making its way into the lower atmosphere, Toohey said. In the meantime, the extra water might also speed up ozone loss in the atmosphere, Rosenlof added.

But it's hard for scientists to say for sure, because they've never seen an eruption like this one.

Germany seals deal with UAE, secures energy supplies

ENERGY

ABU DHABI: The United Arab Emirates agreed on Sunday an "energy security" deal with Germany to supply liquefied natural gas and diesel as Berlin searches for new power sources to replace Russian supplies.

Emirati industry minister Sultan Ahmed Al Jaber called it a "landmark new agreement" that "reinforces the rapidly growing energy partnership between the UAE and Germany", at a signing attended by German Chancellor Olaf Scholz, the UAE's state news agency WAM reported.

Scholz was on a visit to the UAE as part of a Gulf tour that also includes stops in Saudi Arabia and Qatar. He met with Emirati President Sheikh Mohamed bin Zayed Al-Nahyan, who said on Twitter afterwards they had discussed "further opportunities for cooperation in areas including energy security, emissions reduction and climate action".

The German leader said he "welcomed" the "energy security" agreement, WAM said.

HISTORY

A soldier from Massachusetts who went missing during the Korean War and was later reported to have died in a prisoner of war camp has been accounted for using modern scientific techniques, military officials said. Army Cpl. Joseph J. Puopolo, 19, of East Boston, was accounted for in August, according to a statement on Friday from the Defence POW/MIA Accounting Agency. Puopolo, an artilleryman with the 8th Army, was reported missing in action on December 2, 1950, after his unit attempted to withdraw from Kunu-ri, North Korea, following the Battle of Ch'ongch'on, according to the military. Four former POWs reported in 1953 that Puopolo had died at a POW camp in February 1951.

Nostalgia was the overwhelming feeling in Samrat Restaurant on its final day in Chalukya Hotel, its home since forever, before it gets relocated

TUNIR BISWAS

THERE'S a sombre hue cast over Samrat Restaurant, one of Bengaluru's iconic eateries, on Sunday. The place is as busy as ever. No sign of an empty table and lots of people standing outside either sipping coffee or having dosae. But if you've been to this place in the past, you would have noticed that even though the place is just as busy, there's a solemn sadness in the atmosphere. As if everyone is donning sepia-toned glasses and nostalgia is the most ordered emotion from the menu. This day marks the final day of this restaurant hosting their business and customers in the Chalukya Hotel, which has been home to the eatery for multiple decades.

"It is a sad day. This place has been here for many years and is a landmark in the area. In all my years of working, I never knew how time flew so quickly here, but it always did," says Bhaskar Shetty, the store manager who has worked at the restaurant since 1997.

People from all walks of life can be seen having food at Samrat. From old-timers who have been frequenting this place for the past 40 years to children who only started here a few years ago. "I have been coming here since my bachelorhood days. Now, my family and I come here every Sunday and have the badam halwa and the dosae, which is a must. With a heavy heart, I can say that I'm going to miss this place very much. I still remember driving my scooter here in my younger days," shares Vishwanath V Katti, who has been a customer of Samrat since the early 1980s.

While Katti is a veteran customer, Prakya Meh started coming to Samrat in 2010. In fact, she dragged her friend from Chennai to the eatery on Sunday just to try the dosae. "The best thing about any dosae in Karnataka is that they add the red chutney. That is missing in in other places and states. What I like about the dosae at Samrat specifically, is that they add the red chutney into the batter. So the dosae is reddish-orange. This gives so much flavour to it that you can have it without any accompaniments, even though they are also provided," says Meh.

K B Nagendra, a long-time customer relishes his coffee while sitting in his car in the parking area of Samrat Restaurant | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

This place has seen people of importance visiting frequently, from movie celebrities to politicians. Legendary Kannada actor Dr Rajkumar was famous for getting his entire family here. Gracy, the restaurant's customer relationship manager, believes this makes the restaurant a difficult but great place of work. "The work environment here is a little stressful mostly because of the varying degrees of customers we get. The atmosphere is completely different from when we are serving only families one day to when we are serving politicians or celebrities the next day. This job is not for the faint of heart," says Gracy who has worked here for over 15 years.

For now, Samrat is being relocated to Vasanth Nagar in a smaller area, which will be known as Mini Samrat. The entire staff won't relocate to the new place with some going ahead to do some different projects. But discussions have been going on to eventually open a bigger place soon, where the entire crew will be reunited. Outside of its dosae and badam halwa, the place is also known for its rava idli and the white rice rasam sambar meal.

PAVAN Wadeyar, the director of films like Govindaya Namaha, Googly, Rana Vikrama, Natasarvabhouma, and producer of Dollu was honoured to be part of the Oscars jury held recently. The director, who has been busy with the post-production work of his upcoming film, Raymo, was taken aback when he received an email from the Film Federation of India, requesting him to be part of the 17-member jury.

"Being on this big platform is not a joke. I'm glad that somebody at that level has recognised my work. I considered this invitation an honour. Also, Dollu, my first production venture, has brought me into the limelight," he says.

As a director who would be judging other films, he decided to go with an open mind. Pavan watched 13 films in different languages, including Hindi, Telugu, Malayalam Gujarati, Bengali, and one in Dimasa, a popular Assamese dialect. "I looked at every film from every angle – as a viewer, a critic, and a technician. I also got to learn the criteria for a film to be considered for the Oscars. It was a whole new experience for me. The platform also helped me meet a lot of veterans from different parts of India," he says.

About Chhello Show (Last Film Show, a Gujarati movie directed by Pan Nalin) being the official entry to the Oscars, Pavan says it was a unanimous choice. "Chello Show has a lot of emotions. The film is a perfect blend of India, and there is hope which makes it appealing," says Pavan, adding, "All the 13 films, which were part of the selection, were good, but Chello Show stood out."

FAST TO FEAST

As we enter the festive season, here are places that are offering authentic Navratri cuisine

ASLAM GAFOOR

(The writer is a Bengaluru-based hospitality professional, food lover and travel enthusiast)

THE auspicious festival of Navratri is a time of religious reflection and fasting for many people, while it's also an occasion for celebrations and feasting for others. The nine days during which Goddess Durga is worshipped, the food is vegetarian and made with pure ingredients such as rock salt, tapioca pearls, water chestnut flour and root vegetables.

During this auspicious time, Courtyard Bengaluru Outer Ring Road is offering a sattvic bhojan at the MoMo Café. Foods like Farali Dhokla, Farali Wada, Kacche Kele ke Vada, Singhara Puri, Thepla, Sama ke Chawal, and Sabudana Khichdi will form a part of the Navratri bhojan. These delicious dishes will be accompanied with natural thirst quenchers like tender coconut water, masala buttermilk, and desserts such as Basundi and Lauki Halwa.

Glass Kitchen & Bar at the Holiday Inn Bengaluru Racecourse has planned a sattvic menu to celebrate the ethnic delicacies and forgotten recipes curated by the hotel's master chefs. Available across nine days, some of the specials in the thali will include Sabudana Khichdi, Sabudana Kheer, Kuttu Atta ki Poori, Phool Makhana, Singhare Atte ka Halwa and more.

The most delectable vegan food is served at Vegan Vogue in Indiranagar and their Navratri Vrat Aahar features veganised versions of favourites from the festive seasons fasting menus. For appetisers, there is Sabudana Vada and Roasted Phool Makhana and, for mains, head chef Chidananda will present Kuttu Atta ki Puri, Matar Kachori with Aloo Dum, Bengali Basanti Pulao and Vrat ke Chawal Pulao. This special plant-based meal can be topped with two delicious desserts – Sabudana Kheer and Singhara Atta ka Halwa.

This Navratri, Khandani Rajdhani is offering a traditional special vrat thali which packs in all the goodness of the Navratras in one meal. Available across all outlets, the thali will include delicious sattvic vrat foods made from simple and healthy ingredients thoughtfully curated by corporate chef Maharaj Bhawar Singh. Some of the mouthwatering dishes to savour are the Sabudana Vada, Farali Pattice, Fruit Shrikhand and Sabudana Kheer.

A few vegetarian specials for the festival will be included in the Sunday brunch at Angsana Oasis Resort & Spa Bengaluru, while all four of NH8 restaurant locations in Bengaluru will serve a special thali during Navratri.

Coming up in the gaming space

Courtesy: Nalli Silks

I like that videogame announcements are a big event, and millions of people collectively watch a bunch of trailers online. But 'State of Play' that happened last week had a single game that overshadowed almost every other game on their list: the trailer for 'God of War: Ragnarok'. We finally have visible reason to believe and be excited about the game that is in fact coming out in November. Kratos and his now angrier son aside, I am beginning to think that historical Japan seems to be the theme of the era. I am personally excited for 'Rise of the Ronin'; the trailer for this PS5-exclusive RPG was also displayed at State of Play.

Now the State of Play event was relatively small — but there were two other games that I am look forward to next year. One of them is 'Star Wars: Tales from the Galaxy's Edge', for which an enhanced version is set to release on the virtual reality PSVR2. I also enjoyed the trailer for 'Pacific Drive', which features some interesting car action in a dystopian world. My review of trailers at State of Play is now cut short by another event last week — the Tokyo Game Show.

@quofles

(This economics graduate spends her leisure time preparing for the zombie apocalypse)

The Tokyo Game Show is an annual event with a focus on games developed in Japan, with an occasional focus on international game developers. While Tokyo Game Show is more than just a showcase of trailers, I only saw the trailers online — and that was exciting enough. Unlike State of Play, the TGS extends across game consoles. This was highlighted in the gameplay of 'Wuthering Waves', a story based open-world game that will release on the PC and Mobile. This may be potentially the least interesting game announcement to others, considering that TGS also showcased 'Street Fighter 6', 'Yakuza', and 'Sonic Frontiers', and other games from big-name developers like Capcom, Square Enix, Konami and more. Interestingly though, it did feel like the biggest news that hit social-media active gamers was not actually a scheduled announcement — footage leak of GTA 6 in development reached the wider audience, featuring their first female protagonist. Take 2 Interactive, who own Rockstar, are reportedly mopping up the leaked content.

FESTIVE READY

(The author is social media influencer @loftyspectrums and lifestyle coach)

IT is that time of the year when all of us worship the various forms of Maa Durga. The world commemorates Maa Durga's victory and the message of good over evil reverberates even more strongly. These nine days of Navratri witness the vibrance of outfits and ethnic wear as we dance to the tunes of garba and dandiya. Navratri and Durga Pujo bring prosperity and happiness to all of us. With Dasara that is celebrated all over India with different names, comes love and romance and also dressing up and makeup.

Festive and traditional dressing requires styling to add flavours to the regular sarees or salwars.

Even big brands who have been into heritage weaves are introducing elements that go with today's mood palette. Nalli recently has come out with its collection 'Birds of Paradise' that comes in pure, light weight organza sarees with prints. Such saress can be dressed up or down with equal panache. All it requires is styling with accessories or blouses and makeup. A day look could be created pairing the saree with a regular top; or a saree could be donned with a sheer blouse and you are ready for a wedding. Style a saree with a cape or jacket. It is all about your mood and occasion, season and reason notwithstanding.

"Romance is harmonious, delicate and timeless. This collection is inspired from the very romance of our avid friends. Birds or paradise is a playful take on the joyful romance of birds amongst the most beautiful of flowers. As there are different shades of romance, so are the tranquil colours in the collection – the pastels, the bold tropicals, the pristine azures. This collection on sheer organza provides both the shine of silk and the airiness of a breathable drape. Thus this collection is timeless and ageless like the romancing birds that are hand painted for the collection," says Lavanya Nalli, chairperson of the saree brand.

If you are planning pandal hopping, then pair your sarees with jewellery like chokers, bangles, chand balis and change the look of the same saree with different blouses as well. Add some bling to your lehenga with traditional handcrafted silver jewellery.

Navratri, the art, dance, and culture festival is here and this is the time to shine after a two-year break. As much as you get to experience makeup this year, don't forget that whatever you do has to be long lasting throughout the evening and crazy dancing sessions. Different looks in makeup also create a different mood. It is an art to dress up and show up. Celebrity makeup artist Kajol Paswwan says, "My pro tip for every girl would be 'Base is the boss'. Start with your cleanser, tone it with a good toner and then hydrate your skin with face serum and massage it well. Apply your eye cream and get on to the moisturiser and give your skin that perfect hydration before starting with your makeup. The most important step here would be 'locking the skin prep'. Even before you start with your foundation and the makeup base process, lock your skin prep with a makeup fixer and then start with your look, this will make your makeup last longer than usual and keep your skin hydrated as well."

Kajol recommends colourful eyes this Navratri. "Use a vibrant orange or a green eyeshadow to create a show-stopping makeup look. Add a pop of blue liner to make your eyes the centre of attraction. You can also follow a colour theme and create a mix and match of such fun looks every day," she says.

If one wants to go for a modern contemporary glam look, then create it by using a highlighter to get that dazzling shine over your cheek bones while keeping your eye makeup subtle. One can go light on the eyes with a nude eyeshadow and add a pop with a brown liner to define your eyes. Finish the look by adding a soft lip shade and you are good to go for the evening.

Vijaya Prasad and I have no fear in putting forth the truth: Suman Ranganath

Praising the director of her upcoming film, Totapuri, the actor also talks about the kind of roles she prefers doing right now

A SHARADHAA

THERE are very few filmmakers who have understood actor Suman Ranganath's craft, and one of them is definitely director Vijaya Prasad. "The common factor between director Vijay sir and me is that we have no fear of putting forth the truth and reality. A lot of people might think it in their heads, but prefer not to say it out loud. Vijay's stories bring out exactly what you are thinking. Interestingly, all these perspectives come out in the form of comedy, which is one of the most difficult genres to crack. Of course, there are people who can't handle his subjects, but that is the result of showcasing reality," says Suman.

The actor, who has previously worked with Vijaya Prasad in Neer Dose and Petromax, is glad to play yet another interesting role in the filmmaker's upcoming film, Totapuri. The film, which is set to hit the screens on September 30, stars Jaggesh, and Aditi Prabhudeva, and will be out in two parts.

Suman will be sharing screenspace with Dhananjay, who will be seen as a prominent character in the project. "Though Vijay's films are filled with double-entendre humour, they always come with a beautiful message. Many people act out their pain through comedy, and that's is the pulse he goes for in his scripts," says Suman.

Suman feels that the director had a lot to say in this film, which prompted his decision to release Totapuri in two parts. She plays the role of Victoria, a nun. "I have got relatable characters and interesting names in all his films. Though the film has Hindu, Muslim, and Christian characters, there are no controversial scenes. The script tells us about how we can all co-exist in this society. This emotion is put forth by some beautiful dialogues. My character undergoes a lot of changes, and has a beautiful character arc. Dhananjay's role is a fantastic one too. We see undying love through his role. There is a huge ensemble cast, and each actor has a pivotal role to play in the film," says Suman.

Suman shares that she craves unique roles and not just a run-of-the-mill character. "For me, getting a mother's role isn't a deal breaker. I have played both glamorous roles and de-glam roles in my career. All I am looking for is a challenge, and Vijaya Prasad ensures his roles provide me the same," says Suman. The actor is currently shooting for director Santhosh Kodenkeri's yet-to-be-titled project, which has her playing the role of a judge. "I'm also part of Vijay Prasad's next, Parimala Lodge, and that again is a very exciting subject.

I play a traffic police officer, who is also a proper Iyengar wife. It is another fantastic role," she says, adding, "I'm content with my career. I want to do good work and associate with directors who have an insight, and give justification to every character in a film."

Alia Bhatt and Gal Gadot pump up the action in this spy thriller

CE FEATURES

NETFLIX unveiled the first look of Alia Bhatt, Gal Gadot and Jamie Dornan starrer Heart of Stone recently at Tudum, their global fan event. The video shows footage from the film and also some behind-the-scenes where actors comment on the work that has been put in the film.

The video opens with the voiceover, "You know what you signed up for–no friends, no relationships. What we do is too important." We then see visuals of a bike speeding on a road, a dry desert and people running. There are gunshots, chases and Alia Bhatt jumping off a plane.

"Heart of Stone is going to be extremely epic. It's a super grounded, raw action thriller. We really wanted to make sure we keep it realistic so people can feel the pain," Gal says in the promo. She plays the role of Rachel Stone, a CIA agent and a protagonist. Alia adds, "It has these characters that you connect with and feel for." Her character's name is Keya Dhawan. Jamie Dornan promised that the film will be grand in scale.

Alia had shot several action sequences when she was pregnant. Earlier in the year, she had reminisced to Variety about how the team had taken care of her. "It was my first Hollywood big English picture experience and I had quite a task at hand because I was shooting for the first time an action movie. But I'm also pregnant so there were so many layers for me to deal with. But they made it so seamless and so easy and so comfortable for me. It's something that I will never forget because of how beautifully and how well I was treated."

Directed by Tom Harper, Heart of Stone will be released in 2023.
